No Rent Boosts Coming, Porter Pledges

LANDLORDS NOT HURT, SAY OPA STAFF EXPERTS

Price Controls to Drop From Some Farm and Food Products Today.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — At the end of a week jammed with OPA price increases and ceiling removals, price boss Paul Porter came up with a word of cheer for the public today:

Rent ceilings will neither be increased nor removed.

"I think," the OPA administrator said gravely in his weekly address "The American people will be glad to have this announcement and this assurance."

* * *

Landlords Well Off.

He said OPA's research staff was decided landlords generally are better off than they were before the war.

The researchers reported there are fewer vacancies and that little was spent for repairing, redecorating or new equipment since the war began.

Porter's bombshell for landlords came on the heels of an announcement that OPA controls will go off another batch of farm and food products late today while the livestock industry makes the shift from free prices to new ceilngs effective at midnight.

Following close upon OPA's announcement of the higher-than-June-30 livestock prices the department of agriculture made ready to announce its first list of "agricultural commodities in short supply."

* * *

Go Off List.

All products not on the list automatically go off price control at once, under terms of the new price control law.

As soon as the agriculture department list is out OPA will start telling consumers, farmers and processors which individual items are affected and which are not.

To avoid upsetting commodity markets, agriculture officials planned to withhold the announcement until the day's market operations are ended.

The only reliable indications to date are that certain canned goods will be decontrolled—OPA already has removed ceilings from soup—and that fats, oils and sugar will be on the scarcity list.

Dairy products also will be listed in short supply, but this does not mean that ceilings will go back on milk and butter. These products are under jurisdiction of the three-man price decontrol board, which exempted them from ceilings on August 20.

* * *

Meat Ceilings Back.

The meat industry braced itself for the restoration of newly announced livestock ceilings at midnight, packers' ceilings next Thursday, and butcher shop ceilings Sept 9.

OPA Administrator Paul Porter, who had hoped vainly that Secretary of Agriculture Anderson would permit him to roll prices back to June 30 levels, rigidly followed Anderson's higher recommendation in fixing the new ceilings last night

CRACK GANG

Michigan Police Stage Raid On Gambling Syndicate.

DETROIT — (INS) — Michigan state police announce the state's biggest gambling syndicate, a five-million-dollar-a-year numbers racket operating in three counties, was cracked today.

State police, working with the Detroit police vice squad, report raids have cleared the way for a grand jury investigation of the mutual house.

Police report the break came with the closing of five offices at the Polish Bank Mutual house in Detroit. Police Sgt. Clayton Nowlin who led the squad said 45-year-old Felix Jankowski, the alleged manager of the huge syndicate, and 23 aides were taken into custody.

ATHENS—(AP)— Forty-nine seniors—one less than 1935's largest post-season class in Ohio university's history — were graduated yesterday without formal commencement exercises.

Holiday In City to Be Quiet

Mansfielders today faced a quiet and chilly Labor day holiday week-end.

There's no organized observance of the day scheduled in Mansfield, and city residents who planned to go to lake resorts for the holiday are likely to find the weather both cool and damp, the forecasters said today.

Changing their minds since yesterday, weathermen predicted cloudy and warmer weather tonight with showers and much cooler in prospect for Sunday afternoon. Monday will be mostly cloudy and cool with a likelihood of scattered showers, the forecast said.

Bright sunshine lifted the mercury and Mansfield's spirits a little today. The temperature climbed to 70 at noon today from a low of 47 during the night High yesterday was 67

* * *

Business to Halt.

The double holiday, marking the end of the summer vacation season, will see most Mansfielders free to celebrate as they choose.

The courthouse, city building, and state offices in Mansfield will be closed Monday, along with stores and many industries. Only a few restaurants and filling stations will remain open to serve vacationists. There will be no mail deliveries Monday.

AGREE ROMANIA MUST PAY REDS

Big 4 Recommend Transfer of Italian Border Area to French Control.

PARIS — (AP) — Four-power recommendations that Romania pay Soviet Russia $300,000,000 in reparations and that the Italian frontier be adjusted in France's favor in the Mont Cenis plateau region were adopted by peace conference commissions today.

The transfer to France of the upper Tinee, Vesubie and Roya valleys, the largest French territorial demand from Italy, also was approved. The Vesubie and Roya valleys contain the towns of Tenda and Briga, with a combined population of about 4,000.

In her demand, agreed to by the Italian political and territorial commission, France said she wished to move the frontier to the crest of the Alps for military reasons and asserted that the valley dwellers were ethically French.

The economic commission for the Balkans and Finland unanimously approved the Romanian reparations plan after a week of debate which had touched upon Romanian oil.

Article 22 of the Romanian treaty, as approved by the commission, would give Romania eight years from Sept. 12, 1944, in which to pay up. It is provided that payment will be made in commodities such as oil products, grain, timber, seagoing and river craft and sundry machinery

BANDS STRIKE

Musicians Vote Walkout In New York Hotels.

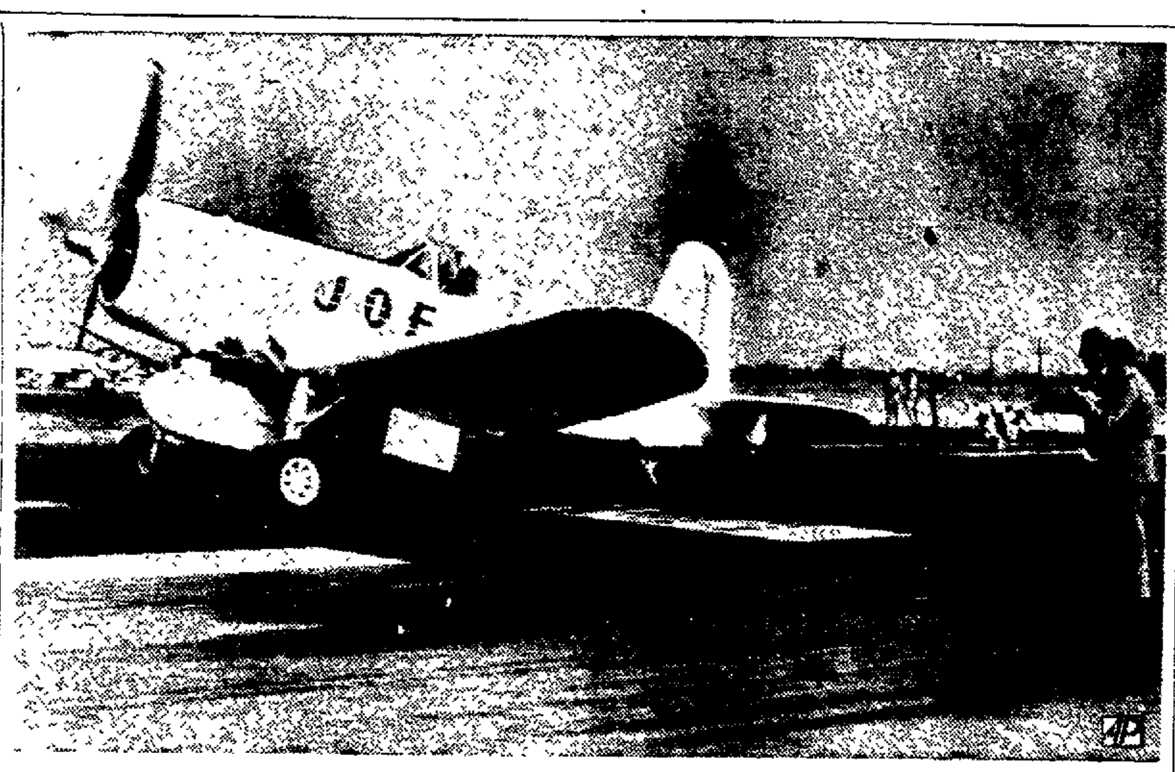
NEW YORK—(INS)—Members of famed Local 802, AFL American Federation of Musicians, backed by a reputed million-dollar strike fund, have voted unanimously to quit their jobs in 51 New York hotels at midnight tomorrow

The strike was called yesterday when the hotels rejected demands for retroactive wage increases ranging from 25 to 50 per cent. Negotiations with restaurants and cabarets meanwhile have been recessed

There was only one compensating factor for music-loving hotel diners—they won't have to pay the usual 20 per cent entertainment tax and in some cases, cover charges

ASKS AID FOR PETS

PHILADELPHIA— (AP)—Police who found the body of 70-year-old Federick Erlinger asked the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals to capture the 14 dogs Erlinger kept in his shanty boat home An equal number of cats escaped in the confusion.



FIRST PLANE OFF IN BENDIX TROPHY RACE

MANTZ WINS FIRST PLACE; COCHRAN A KISS

Thomas Call of Los Angeles in his navy Corsair (top photo) is waved away by the official starter (right), at Van Nuys, Calif, to open the first $25 000 Bendix Trophy race to Cleveland since before the war. But Call was not the first to arrive. Winner was Paul Mantz, Hollywood stunt flier He is shown waving to the crowd at Cleveland's National Air Races after winning the Bendix Trophy race by averaging 435 miles per hour in a converted P51 Mustang fighter from Van Nuys, Cal. Jacqueline Cochran of New York, only woman pilot in the 2,045 mile cross country dash, gets a kiss from her husband after zooming in ten minutes behind Mantz to win second prize.

LINK ESCAPERS WITH CAR THEFT

Officers Believe 2 Who Fled OSR May Have Taken Auto In East Mansfield.

Theft of a car in East Mansfield early today was linked by sheriff's officers with the escape of two Mansfield reformatory inmates yesterday.

Robert Cleveland, 20, of Richland county and Joseph Jonas, 19, of Belmont county, escaped from the institution's orchard shortly before 3:30 p. m. yesterday when a general alarm was sounded.

The car, belonging to James Dickson, Stewart Lane, was taken from the driveway of the Thomas Brumenschenkel home in East Mansfield between midnight and 2 a m, officers were told.

Cleveland was committed to the reformatory Nov. 16, 1944, after having been sentenced in Richland juvenile court to serve an indefinite term for delinquency. Jonas entered the institution July 23, 1945 to serve one to 15 years for burglary

Pilots Shoot for New Records In Air Races

Recheck Gives Noted Woman Flier Second Place In California to Cleveland Cross-Country Dash.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—Former military pilots were set to rack up new speed records today in the $15,000 Sohio Trophy race, 240 mile free-for-all feature of the second day of the National Air Races.

While fliers in the men-only, closed-course event awaited the starting gun, race officials were revising the list of winners in yesterday's transcontinental Bendix speedy dash. Jacqueline Cochran, noted woman flier, was advanced from third to second place and a $5,000 prize, after the judges discovered an error in transmission of "off times" from Van Nuys, Cal., race starting point.

Paul Mantz, veteran Burbank, Cal, racing pilot and owner of a complete set of World War I aircraft, was confirmed as winner of $10,000 first prize and holder of a new Bendix record of 436 601 miles an hour

Woman's Time Fast.

But William E. Eddy, La Jolla Calif, was ousted from second place by Miss Cochran, who averaged 422 miles an hour over the 2,045 mile course. Race Manager Benjamin Franklin said announce-

Expect Final Settlement of Lake Strike Soon.

DETROIT—(AP)—The CIO seamen's 16-day strike on the Great Lakes appeared rapidly heading toward a conclusion today with full peace possible after the Labor day holiday period.

"We may clear this all up by next week," said a spokesman for the CIO National Maritime union in announcing a settlement with one of seven shippers left on the union's "holdout" list

Police Battle Thousands In Rio De Janeiro As Brazilians Stage Price Inflation Riots

RIO DE JANEIRO — (INS) —Cavalry and special police units charged thousands of "anti-inflation" rioters in the streets of the Brazilian capital today in an unsuccessful attempt to check a continuing demonstration against rising prices.

As many as a thousand persons are believed to have been injured, and officials termed the situation "extremely uncertain." Property damage — including smashed store fronts and windows—is estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Army and police authorities have placed all units in Rio's federal district on an emergency alert basis.

The riots started in downtown Rio yesterday when members of the national students union swarmed through smart streets to the ultra-swank Copacabana and Flemengo Beach sections.

Tear gas attacks by police failed to halt wholesale destruction of windows and doors of restaurants stores and theaters.

Spokesmen for the students said the rioting "snowballed" after a minor demonstration called to protest the death of one union member who was poisoned by a candy bar

They said high prices on food "and everything else" forced students to subsist on candy instead of "more wholesome food"

Government leaders blamed lack of earlier and more forceful police action for the heavy damage, but ordered the release of the few student leaders who were jailed.

Informed quarters believe this step indicates the government favors the demonstrations as one way of combatting an inflation which has trebled prices in three years.

Brazil has no effective price controls on consumer goods and prices are rising steadily at approximately ten per cent a month.

FUEL OUTLOOK IN CITY BEGINS TO BRIGHTEN

Dealers Predict Coal Bins Will Be Fuller When Cold Weather Comes.

Chances are good that Mansfield and Richland county coal bins will be fuller than usual this winter regardless of the strike situation on the Great Lakes.

A survey of Mansfield fuel dealers today showed, however, that they had not received the increased quantity they expected two weeks ago from the Great Lakes tie-up which they had hoped would divert more coal to the area

They were of the opinion, however, that the complete close of Great Lakes navigation in November, together with the continued capacity production of the mines serving the district, would brighten the picture considerably in the coming winter months.

"The coal that could not be shipped did not come our way, but it will when navigation ceases in November," Peter Moritz, a partner in the Moritz Coal company, explained in expressing his optimism over the prospects for winter. "Increased output in the mines undoubtedly will help our local situation," he added.

Supply To Grow.

A Kallmerten and Baer spokesman said that his company expected a better supply in the coming months.

"This cold weather we have been having has clouded the outlook momentarily," Stanley Knapp of the Voegele brothers company said because it has resulted in increased early orders

Only one company of the half dozen surveyed believed that the supply this winter would be as short as it had been in the three war years

DRIVER HELD IN FATAL MISHAP

Ashlander Cited After His Truck Causes Death of Mrs. Cora Beach, 81.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Cora B. Beach, 81, widow of William V Beach, died at Samaritan hospital at midnight last night of injuries received yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a hit-skip truck driver at the intersection of Claremont avenue and Walnut street, in Ashland.

Driver of the truck, Elias Cline, of Claremont avenue, has been charged by Ashland police with failing to stop after an accident. Cline was stopped three blocks from the scene and taken to the police station by Felix E. Sanduski, of Columbus, who said Cline told him he didn't know he had hit anyone. A hearing for Cline has been set tentatively for Tuesday morning.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Beach died from complications resulting from her injuries. She received a compound fracture of the right leg, fractured left leg, concussion and shock

Born in Mifflin, Mrs. Beach moved to Ashland in 1871 and had lived there since then. She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church, the American Legion auxiliary, and the Lotos club

She is survived by three brothers, William and Frederick Kagey, of Findlay, and Tully Kagey, of Ashland, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Denbow-Bear funeral home Tuesday at 10 a. m. by Rev. Harold H. Lentz, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Bandit Shoots 2 Tulsa Detectives

TULSA, Okla.—(INS)—Police today sought a bandit who shot two Tulsa detectives, one critically in a running gun battle after the robbery of an east side grocery store

The bandit was believed wounded in last night's exchange of shots before he abandoned a stolen car, took another at pistol point and escaped. The wounded detectives are Jerry St. Clair and Harold Harding.

Bandit's Death Bares Use of Foreign Thugs

Russians Bare Teeth In Press, Radio Attacks Against U. S., Britain For 'Imperialistic' Moves to Influence Voting.

ATHENS—(INS)—New evidence alleging that "foreign elements" are engaged in terrorist activities on Greek soil on the eve of the monarchy plebiscite was offered today amidst continuing reports of violent clashes.

Col. Efthimios Tsatalos, chief of the central Macedonian police, announced that the personal effects of a Yugoslavian bandit chief killed by police two days ago showed "incontestible proof" of imported terrorism.

Denying Russian-inspired interference, the Soviet press and radio opened a new onslaught against United States diplomatic and naval policies today on the eve of the crucial plebiscite in Greece.

Washington was accused inferentially of imperialism. American decision to send the aircraft carrier Franklin D Roosevelt into Greek waters was attacked sharply.

Greek government officials insisted that terrorist acts were being promoted from the "outside" Tsatalos spread the bandit's clothing on the floor of his office for inspection by correspondents.

Among the possessions were a Yugoslav army uniform and cap, with Yugoslav badges of rank and other insignia. Gendarmes said they found in his knapsack a collection of Serbian pamphlets, one of the latter entitled "Program for Communist Partisans."

The police chief said:

"Up to now many doubts have been cast on the veracity of our reports of activities by Yugoslav and Bulgarian Communist bands. I think this should settle the matter once and for all."

King's Pictures Appear.

Meanwhile square miles of Athens were plastered with huge placards calling for return of King George II in tomorrow's balloting. Pictures of the monarch appeared everywhere, even on the sides of buses and tram-cars

British officials in the Greek capital estimate that 426 political murders have been committed between May 1 and Aug. 15, and reports from the hinterland say armed bands representing both left and right factions are roaming the countryside to "check" voters.

Monarchist sources said they are confident of victory, and have already arranged to send three destroyers to Alexandria to bring back King George II.

They claimed the tactics of the extreme left have frightened many republicans into voting for the monarchy.

Bans Meetings.

Fear of further outbreaks of violence led Public Works Minister Stylianos Gonatas, acting premier, to institute a ban against all meetings in Greece until after the voting Gonatas warned:

"Any disturbances arising in connection with the plebiscite will be treated as an act of pure treason against the interests of the nation."

The plebiscite, one of the most historic moments in the life of Greece, will begin at sunrise tomorrow and ballot boxes will be opened at 3,000 polling stations.

More than 1,700,00 of Greece's population of seven million persons are expected to vote.

HOUSING FUND UP TO COUNTY

Allocation of $64,000 Share Awaits Action By Commissioners.

Allocation of Richland county's $64,149 share of the $6,000,000 veterans' housing fund set up recently by the state today awaited action by the county commissioners who must agree to add 15 per cent to the fund

C. L. Shoup, chairman of the board of commissioners, said today that the commissioners had no plans yet for making an application for the county's share of the emergency housing fund.

The housing bill places all responsibility for application for the funds in the hands of the county commissioners.

The bill states that all matters of control, management and operation of the emergency housing project is the responsibility of the commissioners, and other political sub-divisions may participate only to the extent of contributing funds.

Shoup said the commissioners had not received an official copy of the bill today and there were no plans now to meet with city officials.

The county has until 1949 to apply for the funds. If the money is not used then, it reverts to the state

Performs In Machine Age Strip Tease

NORWALK — (INS) — A corn kernel removing machine in a Norwalk cannery has all the symptoms of a mechanical "wolf."

A nearby Fairfield woman who operates the machine can testify to this. Her clothing became entangled in the machine and she was completely disrobed before her fellow workers could extricate her from the mechanical hands.

One sympathetic workman loaned the woman his coat and another found a blanket for her. Besides embarrassment, she also suffered minor injuries.

The cannery operators are hoping that hereafter that particular machine will concentrate on the job at hand—removing the kernels from corn.

Sees No Hookup Of Bund, Klan

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Responsible government officials said today it was a "certainty" the German-American Bund was crushed by the FBI early in the war and could therefore have no link with present Ku Klux Klan activities.

Their statement followed disclosure that Gov Ellis Arnall of Georgia had asked President Truman for an immediate investigation of a possible connection between underground remnants of the Bund and the KKK.

CIVIL WAR FLARES

Home a Week, Now He'll Have To Move Again

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 300 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

Tired of being moved about and living under conditions that are not always the best most servicemen dream about coming back to a home of their own.

James Boyd, today's veteran, was one who spent 16 months on occupation duty in Japan with this thought foremost in his mind. But the critical housing shortage won't permit Boyd to realize that dream.

Returning home just a week ago, he learned that he and his family must vacate their present home soon.

With hardly a chance to get his feet on the ground, and to unpack his bags, Boyd says that he "just can't see how there could be such a shortage of houses unless the many new stores and buildings he sees going up all over can account for it"

If you can help Boyd and his family find the home they're looking for, please call the Veterans' Information center (1730-6)

Frozen Salads For Variety

Mrs. H. E. Gaul Sends Family Recipe for Frozen Salad.

Two tickets to the Ohio theater will be awarded to Mrs. H. E. Gaul, 224 Vennum avenue, for her fruit salad recipe. Said Mrs. Gaul, "this recipe came from my husband's family and has been handed down for generations. It is used as a dessert for all happy occasions, such as wedding dinners. It is 'different' because of the unique taste the special dressing gives it."

Fruit Salad.

1 cup sugar
½ cup white distilled vinegar
3 large soda crackers

Combine sugar and vinegar, then lay crackers on top. Cook until the crackers are all dissolved. Let stand over night or until completely cold. Then add ½ pint cream, whipped. This is a little difficult to mix as the first mixture is like taffy.

Combine white or pink grapes (seeded), cut marshmallows, bananas, pineapple and nuts. Pour the dressing over the fruits and mix lightly. Serve on nests of lettuce cut very fine.

Recipes received from area residents will be printed on the Saturday page for women. Address all correspondence to this page.

FROSTY DELIGHTS . . . Ice-box salads.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

Did you ever freeze a salad for summer? Doesn't it sound cool for a scorching day? It is, and you ought to try it. Below we give you some recipes to serve eight because we think there are such nice partyish coolers that you'll want to serve them to friends.

Frozen Water Cress Fruit Salad.

⅔ cup evaporated milk or cream
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons water
⅓ cup (3 ounces) cream cheese
3 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 cups white grapes
⅛ cup maraschino cherries
1 bunch water cress

Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until almost frozen. Soften gelatin in cold water, place over hot water until entirely melted. Mash cream cheese at room temperature. Stir in lemon juice, salt and mayonnaise. Place milk in chilled bowl and whip until stiff. Stir in melted gelatin. Add milk to cheese mixture. Cut grapes in half, maraschino cherries in quarters and fold in. Add water cress, stems cut in 1-16 inch lengths, leaves cut medium fine. Place in individual paper cups or molds. Freeze in freezing compartment of automatic refrigerator or in a freezer. Before serving defrost slightly at room temperature for 15 to 30 minutes.

Avocado Salad.

1 bunch water cress
2 cups avocado
⅓ cup lime juice
½ teaspon salt
⅔ cup (6 ounces) cream cheese
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
¼ cup water

Cut water cress stems in 1-16 inch lengths, leaves medium fine. Mash avocado. Add lime juice and salt. Mash and add cream cheese. Mix thoroughly. Soften gelatin in cold water, place over hot water until entirely melted. Stir into avocado mixture. Add water cress and stir it in lightly. Pack in individual paper containers and freeze in freezing compartment of automatic refrigerator or in a freezer.

Pineapple-Nut Frozen Salad.

⅔ cup evaporated milk or cream
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons water
⅓ cup (3 ounces) cream cheese
3 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 cup canned pineapple, crushed
¼ cup pecans, finely chopped
1 bunch water cress

Chill milk in refrigerator tray until almost frozen. Soften gelatin in cold water, place over hot water until entirely melted. Mash cream cheese at room temperature. Stir in fruit juice, salt and mayonnaise. Place milk in chilled bowl and whip until stiff. Stir in melted gelatin. Add milk to cheese mixture. Drain pineapple and crush. Chop pecans fine. Fold in pineapple and nuts. Add water cress, stems cut in 1-16 inch lengths, leaves cut medium fine. Place in individual paper cups and freeze in freezing compartment of automatic refrigerator or in a freezer.

Books For The Younger Set

A new dog story! Meet Whitepaws in A WILD DOG OF EDMONTON, by David Grew. Dwight ran away from home so that he could keep his dog. Then he became ill and was taken to the hospital. Whitepaws, petted and spoiled, knowing nothing but friendliness and protection, was left alone. He knew only that he must stay close to where he had last seen his master, and somehow keep alive. He learned the power of a growl, learned how to fight, how to hunt, even how to steal chickens. He nearly starved and almost froze but his courage and his love for Dwight kept him alive. He fought dogs, once jumped on a man, and came to be known as a "wild dog" and the police of Edmonton tried to trap him. Could he and Dwight ever be together?

Sometimes everything seems bad. Mothers and fathers just don't seem to understand. So it seemed to Ellen when she was told that the family was moving to Colorado. Travelling on the train, eating in the diner was fun, but carrying the goldfish and the canaries was awful. And yet—that was the beginning of THE WONDERFUL YEAR told about by Nancy Barnes. Father and Mother did understand after all, even about the bicycle Ellen had never been allowed to have. Colorado was exciting, living in a tent, getting lost, snakes and floods kept Ellen from being homesick. But it was making friends with Ronnie and getting to be popular in school that made the year wonderful. When Ellen was 12 and the wonderful year was ending she knew there would be many more wonderful years to come.

Schedule of Events

SUNDAY

The wedding ceremony of Miss Betty Foster to Russell Slabaugh will be performed at 7 p. m. at the Seventh Day Adventist church. Elder F. C. Webster of Mt. Vernon will officiate at the open church ceremony.

Miss Joyce Yarger and Howard Bletz will be wed in an open ceremony at 2:30 p. m. at the South Main Evangelical church.

Household Hints

Of all the foods with just claim for nutritional fame, few have crammed into them the variety of vital nutrients that peanuts do. Combine peanuts with meat and vegetable dishes. Use them in cookies, cakes and frostings.

* * *

Know your rhubarb. If rhubarb has dark reddish-colored stalks and deep green leaves, it's field grown. If stalks are light pink and leaves light green, it's from a hot house. With either variety, if leaves are crisp and unwilted, and stalks aren't stringy, it's fresh.

* * *

Of course, gravy must be good gravy. For interesting variations, add sliced onions, diced celery or mushrooms. These should be cooked in the drippings before the flour is added. For something more unusual, crumble a few ginger snaps into the gravy to give it a delicious, spicy flavor.

* * *

Looking for a new vegetable notion? Combine one cup mashed canned or fresh peas with two cups mashed potatoes. Season well Heap in mounds and brown lightly for ten minutes in a moderate oven.

* * *

Are you a one-way bean cooker? There are so many species of beans and so many ways of preparing them. Completely new dishes can be made by the addition of cheese, corn, celery, tomatoes, mushrooms, salmon, meat, or other foods that your imagination might prompt you to use. There need be no monotony in the menus featuring beans.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Last night Alexandra Dagmar opened a week's engagement with Gene Raymond in "The Man in Possession" at the Cape Playhouse. Listed as "Alexandra Dagmar," she remained unknown to the audience until recognized as Gertrude Lawrence. Some members of the audience, still are unaware that Alexandra Dagmar was really Miss Lawrence posing as an unknown Danish actress. The vacationing Dorothy Kilgallen here presents the "inside story" as told by Miss Lawrence.)

Dear Dorothy:

I do hope you are having a lovely time and enjoying a well-earned rest after your hard winter.

Where have I heard or read those words before?

You've guessed it, on the telephone from New York and in letters from friends abroad.

Well, it was my firm intention after "Pygmalion" closed in New York last June to retire to Cape Cod and have a truly Sabbatical Summer So not even waiting to wallow in the talents of the "Old Vic" I rushed up here to open the house, ready for the arrival of Richard.

After getting things well under way my cook informed me in New York that she was "tired of the smell of food," and nothing but a vacation from it was her desire.

I started on a search around New York employment agencies for a cook to come to Massachusetts. My word, how cooks love New York in the Summer ! ! !

You can't bribe them to leave for any other climate.

* * *

I interviewed thousands. I painted rosy pictures of the wonders of Cape Cod, and stressed that we were only two in the family, no pets, no parties—but nothing doing!

So I prepared to leave and live like a truly British housewife and manage myself. At least I would have Hazel (my prize theater maid), who was coming up to help me open the Playhouse season with a week of "Pygmalion."

We closed in New York Saturday night, June 1, and at 8:30 a. m. Sunday, Hazel called on the telephone, crying desperately that her mother was ill in California, and she had to fly right out, at once!

I said I understood, and was most sympathetic, and told her to find me a dresser for one week.

Helen (the cook) offered to help me out until I could get a cook up here.

During the first four weeks we had just occasional help. I cleaned the house inside—and worked on the grounds outside—until at night I could hardly crawl up the small flight of 11 stairs to my room.

However, Hazel sent me a dresser, and she got me through "Pygmalion" and an adventurous period with a very large lady from Trinidad who for even a larger salary managed to break everything, but allowed me to do the ordering and planning of meals, clean the fireplaces, make the beds, etc., and who finally left for a visit to New York and never came back by agreement on both sides!

* * *

I won't go into the details of the next weeks, suffice it to say I now possess a large assortment of maids' uniforms of various sizes should your readers wish to apply.

Finally we obtained a couple—oh, blessed are they!—and I started to relax a bit, and attend rehearsals and opening nights of the season at the Playhouse.

What fun it seemed, but my reign was over. My evenings were long and empty.

Finally I told Richard that I felt "out of things," and asked if I could play some "bit" parts each week.

He said it was out of the question. The public would think it a pose. He had plenty of apprentices, and it would unbalance the whole series of plays.

However, he said I could do another play if I wanted to, but there were no more star women's parts open, and he was dead against it, anyway, as I ought to be resting.

Then a mad idea seized me and I said "All right, let's pretend it's NOT me. I'll take any week you have a woman's part vacant—any part."

Richard said he still didn't think it was a good idea—he couldn't bill me over the star—and neither could he spring the news on him that he was to co-star with Gertrude Lawrence.

So I said "Don't let's CALL me by that name, let's CHANGE it, that will solve everything, and let's not tell anyone!"

* * *

And so it was decided that I could play opposite to Gene Raymond in "The Man In Possession," using my two Danish first names on the program, Alexandra Dagmar.

It was going to be such fun, until Richard remarked a few days ago, "Well, darling, how does it feel to be going into a play where you have no responsibility—and nothing to live up to?

I DID have responsibility—I did have a great deal to live up to. I had 25 years of being accepted with affection by the American public to live up to, and it all had to be done without fanfare—publicity, billing or ballyhoo. After 25 years I was going to find out the answer to "What's in a name?"

For the first time I was going to make an entrance onto the stage knowing that I have not drawn ONE SINGLE DIME to the box office, and that the audience has come there simply and solely and eagerly to see Gene Raymond.

It is a strange feeling. The play action is set in London, so I cannot assume an interesting accent—the costumes are modern so that excludes any disguise. There is an entire first act in which I do not appear, but this time the audience won't even be waiting for me.

Will they accept the joke as such?

Will they recognize my classic profile and react with applause? Or will the joke go unnoticed, and the poor Alexandra Dagmar be left to make a mark or a mess of things?

Maybe I should have kept my ideas to myself and not stuck my neck out.

Love from
GERTRUDE LAWRENCE

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

All living things in place maintained
So benefit for all is gained.
—Old Mother Nature.

Con-ser-va-tion. It is a big word to roll around a small tongue, isn't it? Not all big things are important but con-ser-va-tion is just as important as it sounds. It is one of the most important things in this great country of ours today. The trouble is that too many people never give it a thought, and all too many others who do think about it and talk about it don't know what true conservation really is. To them it means protecting and increasing only those forms of life in which they are selfishly interested, killing such other forms as in any way interfere. They have no understanding of what this means. Too many hunters and fishermen are like this. They are honest. They mean well, but see things only through prejudice. Where there is prejudice there can be no true conservation.

In Farmer Brown's garden a little Rabbit and a little Woodchuck had been in mischief without knowing they were in mischief. They had feasted on prize lettuce, been plants and other things growing there.

They had feasted on prize lettuce, bean plants and other things growing there

"They had become pests. I had to get rid of them or they would have ruined much of the garden," explained Farmer Brown's boy.

"Then why didn't you shoot them? Don't you think destructive pests should be killed?" asked a hunter who had made friends with Tommy.

"Some, like Rats and Mice and many worms and insects, should or we would have no food ourselves, but there are others who become pests only because they happen to get where they don't belong. Put them where they do belong and they are no longer pests. So I trapped that Chuck and that Rabbit and let them go up here in the Old Pasture where they belong. I saved my garden, and I saved them to live and grow up if they are smart enough," explained Tommy.

"I suppose that is what you call conservation," said the hunter.

Tommy grinned so that the small freckles on his face made one big freckle. "I suppose it is," he agreed. "Yes, sir, I guess you can call it that. Just saving my garden by killing them wouldn't have been. But saving both the garden and them, and putting them where they belong, is."

"Supposing you couldn't have trapped them or kept them out of that garden. What would you have done then?" asked his friend.

"I would have had to shoot them," replied Tommy soberly.

"Would that have been conservation?" asked the other slyly.

Tommy thought this over for a moment. "Yes," said he slowly. "Yes, I think it would. It would have been much more important to save the garden than to save them, for they were out of place. But what I have done is better conservation."

"Supposing that instead of a young Chuck a young Skunk had been digging around in the garden, what would you have done then?" asked the other.

"Let him alone," replied Tommy promptly and grinned again.

"Afraid?" questioned his companion.

"Me afraid!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's boy. "I should say not. I would have let him alone because he wouldn't have been a pest. He wouldn't have been misplaced."

"Don't tell me you think he would have belonged there!" cried the hunter friend pretending to be shocked.

"Certainly he would have belonged there or he wouldn't have been there," retorted Farmer Brown's boy. "It would have meant that he was hunting for and digging up grubs, among the worst of garden pests because they work out of sight underground destroying plants by eating the roots. A Skunk is one of the best friends a farmer has, but most farmers don't know it. That is the trouble with most folks—they don't know. They work against Old Mother Nature instead of with her. They mean well, but oh, boy, what a mess they make of it! They haven't learned that there can be too much of a good thing as well as too much of a so-called bad thing. They haven't learned that Old Mother Nature knows best. It is this lack of knowledge and understanding on the part of Man that upsets the balance Nature tries so hard to keep."

"Con-ser-va-tion," murmured the hunter as he picked up one of the empty traps and they started for home.

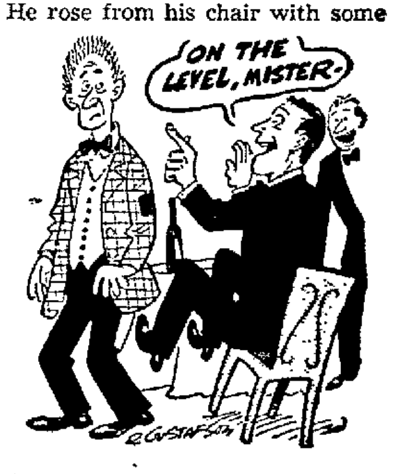
The next story: "Learning to Live."

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

At a stag dinner in the Lambs club, a group of well-lubricated convivials were startled by the sudden entrance of a weird character with flaming red hair standing on end, a chalk-white face, and a costume that looked as though it had been laid away in mothballs for a decade.

Ring Larder recovered first. He rose from his chair with some difficulty, and poking a shaky and accusing finger in the newcomer's face, demanded, "On the level, mister, how do you look when I'm sober?



* * *

At the opening performance of Sheridan's "School for Scandal," the playwright noted with mounting anger that a rival in a stage box failed to crack a smile during the entire performance. In complaining about it later, he told a group of friends, "Cumberland was not only rude, but definitely ungrateful. He had a tragedy open last Monday, and curse me if I didn't laugh my head off very loudly all the way through it!"

Drive carefully tomorrow and Monday—everybody will be going somewhere, including reckless drivers.

One writer brightly asserts: "The world can't afford a third World war"—but the first and second weren't so cheap either.

An alert reader contends, correctly, that charge of 25 cents for a 5-cent soft drink—as at Cedar Point—is ONLY a 400 per cent price jump, instead of 500 per cent, as mistakenly calculated, which sounds all right, except for the "only."

U. S. Makes Territory Report To UN

ALL of the United Nations maintaining dependent territories are required by the UN charter to file regularly reports covering educational, social and economic conditions in the territories.

The first such report to be submitted to Secretary-General Trygve Lie was prepared by Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson and filed by Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate to the UN. It is considered a broad interpretation of the rule, and as such may stand as an example to other nations with dependent colonies.

Under the charter the dependent peoples of the world are divided into two classes. The first, which embraces 20 per cent of such peoples, is the group designated as coming under the trusteeship of the United Nations. The second and larger group includes the non-self-governing territories, each of which is governed by its owner.

The American report is comprehensive, covering Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam and American Samoa. The statement exemplifies the feeling that it is important to take this regulation seriously. American statesmen believe that the welfare of the dependent colonies requires that it not be considered a trivial diplomatic formality, but an obligation for the member nations to make public conditions in their territories.

What People Are Thinking About

IT MAY BE assumed that a cross-section of what people in this area are thinking about is found in the subjects that seemed uppermost in the minds of the 675 persons who conferred with Congressman J. Harry McGregor during his early August visit to the six counties of this Seventeenth district, which he represents in Washington.

A tabulation of the various subjects of special interest discloses a majority related to such personal problems as veterans' insurance, dependency allotments, priorities, method of securing surplus property, and the like.

Then there were those who asked about the sugar shortage, the scarcity of farm machinery, shipment of materials to foreign countries, means of gaining permission to build houses, and so on.

Naturally, considerable interest was evidenced in atomic energy and in the United Nations peace program—making, all in all, a convincing demonstration of the serious thinking of many people on various phases of community, national and international activities.

Divorces Overtax Court Facilities

FOR A LONG TIME there has been recognition that Richland county has need for the facilities of a court devoted specifically to juvenile and "domestic relations" cases, which have been growing steadily in volume, with divorce actions now swamping the common pleas court, and a considerable percentage of the cases in the combined probate and juvenile court involving children of divorced parents.

It is encouraging to note that serious approach to this subject is being made by the Richland County Bar association, with a committee of lawyers appointed to make a study of the situation and to recommend what they believe to be the best course of action.

Splitting Atoms for Peacetime Use

OAK RIDGE, Tennessee, a town which was built three years ago around the people who helped produce the atomic bomb, is developing civic consciousness, according to a writer in Business Week.

Sidewalks and curbings are being installed and temporary buildings are in the process of being improved, reinforced, painted, and made permanent. Transient workers are moving out and the population has become stabilized at about 44,000. The citizens, who are on the average younger than those of most cities of this size, enjoy recreation areas, community centers, a little theater, a symphony orchestra and a public library.

The Oak Ridge payroll is large, with higher than average wages for the individual. This fact makes for prosperity in the surrounding region, as one employe out of three lives outside of the town.

Emphasis is changing from interest in the bomb project to power production and the development of radioactive substances for peacetime use. Over 100 varieties of the latter are available at Clinton laboratory and are in demand by hospitals, educational institutions, and commercial laboratories.

The Einstein theory has now been simplified by the professor in a treatise entitled, "An Elementary Derivation of the Equivalence of Mass and Energy," which is not yet listed among best sellers.

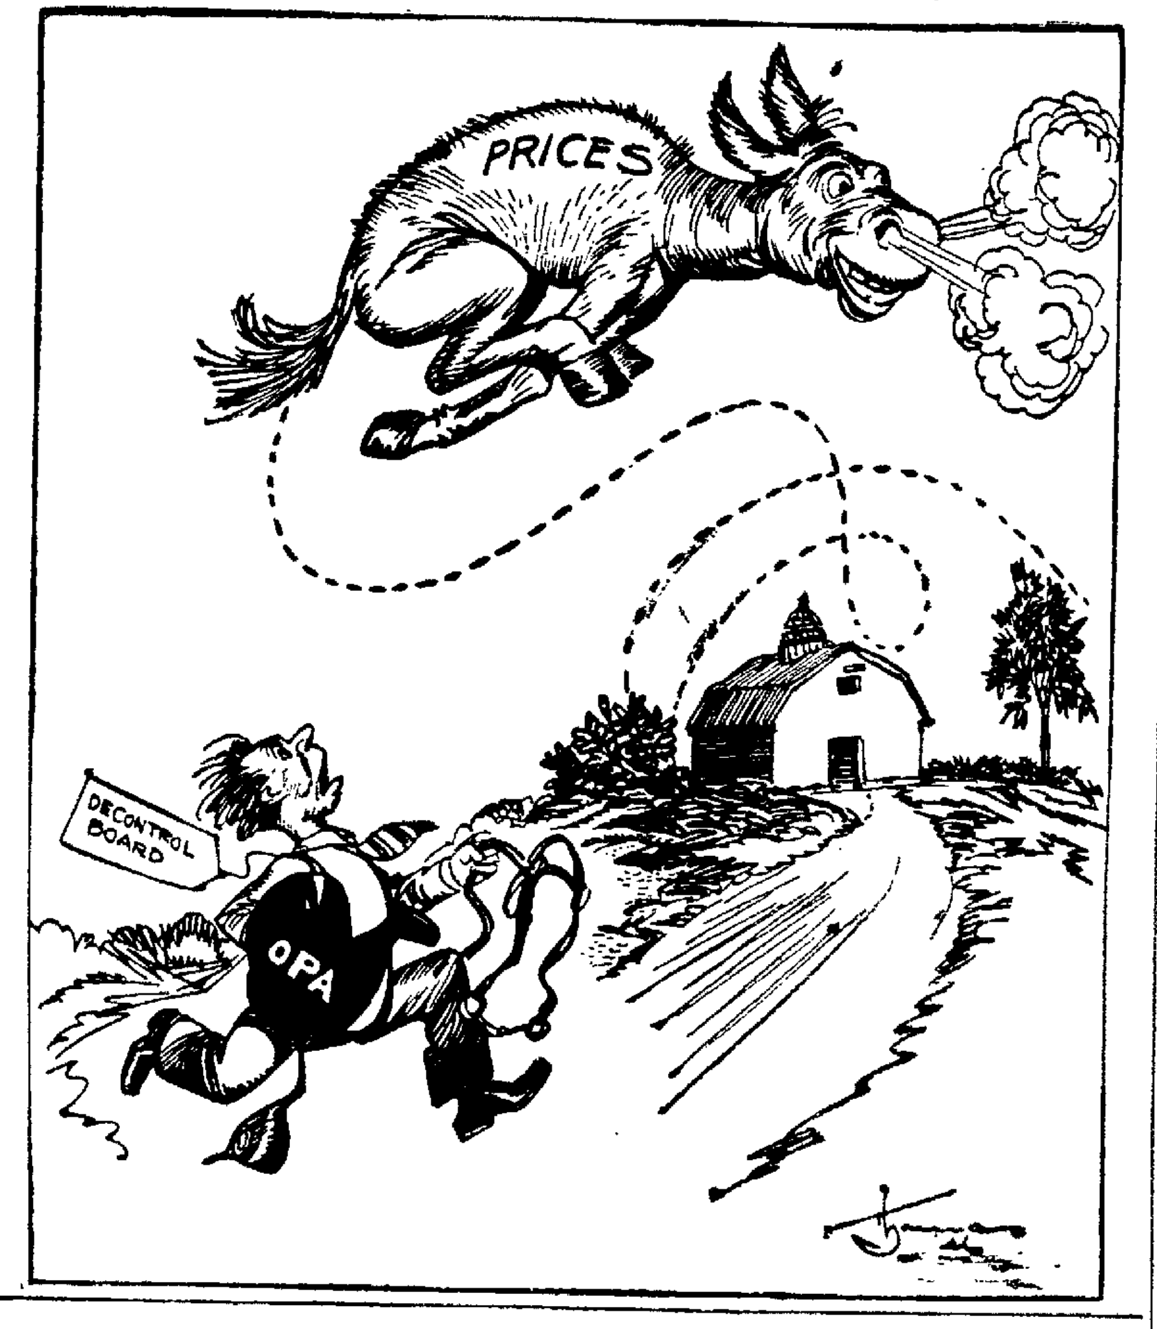
It is claimed for a newly patented salt and pepper shaker that "it delivers salt and pepper at the same time"—without explaining how this can be avoided.

With prices going up in the way they are, it is understood that even the Joneses are having trouble "keeping up with the Joneses."

And just to think, in a scant two years we'll be right in the midst of another presidential campaign!

It's a Boston Globe man who tells of knowing a burglar "who is as honest as the day is long."

HARD TO BRIDLE A WILD HORSE.



Avoidance of War Held as Only Safeguard Against Atomic Bomb

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

"THOSE responsible for the defense of the nation must make their plans on the basis that there is and will be no adequate control (of the atomic bomb) on the international level."

That is the surrent policy of the United States war department as defined by Secretary Patterson.

"The only complete defense against the bomb is a system that will avoid war," say the scientific advisors of Bernard Baruch, in a supplement to the American control plan submitted for the guidance of the United Nations atomic energy commission.

"The remaining alternative is development of superior bombs and superior ways of delivering them to the target as counter-offensive weapons," the report also says, with the comment:

"This might deter a nation from starting an aggressive war by making it apparent that victory is impossible."

Neither of these statements were made as threats. Patterson was outlining his conception of his own job while awaiting the outcome of negotiations which are the business of others, for whom he prayed Godspeed.

The statement of the Baruch group was contained in a report primarily directed at informing United Nations delegates of the beneficial results of atomic fission for mankind—provided the nations can reach political agreement.

But there in cold words is stated the alternatives—general peace or an all-consuming atomic armaments race, which as a matter of fact is already in its early stages.

We have the word of careful observers that Soviet fear of the atomic bomb is an important influence on foreign policy, and that strenuous scientific and industrial efforts are being made to "catch up."

In Britain and in Canada, which co-operated in development of the original bomb but which do not have the complete "know how" even yet, important and expensive experiments are under way. The program in the United States continues at untold expense. No one knows what other peoples may be burdened with this war-preparatory load while struggling to rehabilitate themselves after the last one.

But it is clear that if it continues the whole world is headed for a bleeding of resources which will make the costs of Europe's ancient standing army system look like a child's candy allowance, for an era in which uranium will not only substitute for butter, but also for meat, and for bread.

Not to mention the fact that somewhere, sometime, someone will take the desperate chance of war through sheer fear-weariness and to keep the other fellow from getting farther ahead than he is already.

The scientific committee of the UN control commission is busy studying concrete means of bomb control. It seeks to determine whether segregation of uranium may be an answer; whether there are any essential parts of the bomb, or steps in its manufacture, through control of which the entire making of bombs could be stopped.

Others are trying to persuade the nations that it would be better to submit to outside inspection than to continuous fear.

They weigh this angle, and that angle, none of which is more than a part of the whole.

But to end the situation in which Mr. Patterson finds himself, the Baruch group says, we must learn to avoid war—not atomic war, or bow-and-arrow war, but war.

Efforts to control the bomb alone can hardly prove worthwhile unless they are constantly considered as steps toward the ultimate, not the limited, objective.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

TUESDAY, August 31, 1926

Extension of western city limits of Mansfield to include Ausdale became effective.

Record showed 264 cases heard in police court during August, 93 having been for violation of traffic regulations.

Floyd Dent, Boy Scout executive, was injured by explosion of small cannon during Rotary club meeting at Camp Avery Hand.

Miss Mary Louise Stash and Joseph Chelski were married in St. Peter's Catholic church by Rev. Fr. R. C. Goebel.

Annual frolic of Friendly House children was held at Walker's lake.

Birth report: Daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Newton, Pleasant avenue.

Homer McFadden, freshman at Wittenberg, was making good showing in bid for position as tackle on football team.

Miss Elizabeth Kegg, Maple street, went to New York to study in Palmer school of art.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

Maxwell dry goods store was moved into new location in Smith building.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Colonel Henry, of the French army, on August 31, 1911, confessed to having forged letters to secure the conviction of Captain Dreyfus. The colonel committed suicide.

Dave Boone Says:

THE National Labor Relations Board has decided that it is all right for an employer, with his business threatened, to speak to the help provided he keeps his talk temperate. He is not guilty of coercion if he is careful what he says and at no time gets hot under the collar.

* * *

Well, it's nice to know that in the world of today there is any one group anywhere on earth that is supposed to keep its views temperate and never be excited or forgetful in an opinion.

* * *

It's so long since I heard anybody with an opinion give it calmly, gently and without pounding a table or pacing a floor that I'd pay cash to get into some group where I could see and hear such a novelty.

* * *

But, shucks, the idea is to be limited to employers, it seems, and won't be open to all comers.

Calvin A. Byers

Farmer's Diary: "Goodbye to August."

DROUTH and occasional light showers have left the pasture on our many hills drab and scanty; level meadows are clipped, weeds and stubble lay upon the surface. August has not been hot this year. Instead we have had cool days, like early mild October. And all along our lowland valleys some nights were so cold that the substance of icy crystals clung to grass blades at early morning, and was visible like a faint mist on rails and boards.

Corn fields need warm nights and days that shimmer with sunshine. August has skimped our favorite crop on warmth and rain but often Nature compensates the lack of one month by the amplitude of the one to follow. We say goodbye to August and look ahead to a warm wet autumn.

Swallows and bluebirds, wood peewees and scarlet tanagers slipped away to the south weeks ago. Only the artless hanging nest remains to tell of the oriole's summer in the tallest maple.

Ragweed is rampant. The air is full of yellow dust. The country waits, amid snuffles, sleeplessness and lassitude, for less irritating times. Wild carrot umbels spread like nodding bits of lace along the roads and by every narrow footpath.

Goldenrod begins to tower and overtop the surrounding grasses, flaunting its brilliant yellow against the hedgerows and among the sumacs on the slope. Iron weed is purple in the lower pastures, except where the farmers have mowed their fields. Lacy pink leaves of sassafras are fluttering down—five-leafed ivy is turning red upon roadside snags, and stonepiles.

Harvest is long past . . . even delayed threshing has been finished. Vacationers are returning from their trips away, the "memories of mountains in their eyes."

The school child has his pencils and his books, his new shoes and sweater neatly on the shelf; his talk begins to savor of new teachers and new classes.

Throughout the land, schoolhouses are getting painted, floors waxed and buildings repaired. In every district several big yellow school buses are being overhauled, repainted, and made ready.

We say goodbye to long fragrant summer days, to swimming hole and berry patch and deep woods shade. We look ahead to brilliant autumn colorings—late garden, canning and pickling,—the relief of dispirited victims of allergy after frost. "Goodbye to August" has a welcome sound to these.

Views of a Veteran.

Editor News-Journal:

From all indications dogs that are lost or have gone astray will soon have a nice $12,000 home to live in.

What about us, the veterans, the "Welcome home (what home?) well done boys." We can't even find a nice cozy room or garage for our wives and children.

The children of today will no doubt be the presidents, senators, etc., of the future—even the mayor and other officials of this thriving and growing city of Mansfield, but what is being done to help them get a suitable home?

You may not know what it is to be shoved around from room to room, and live where there are three families in one house. If you don't just ask a vet that is so situated and you will get an answer.

There is one thing that myself and hundreds of other vets would like to know—is this city going to us, the citizens of today, and our children, the citizens of tomorrow—or is it going to the dogs.

Too Much Business, Hotel Men Complain.

CHICAGO—Since obviously the demand for hotel rooms nowadays is much greater than the available supply of such rooms, large numbers of people have made the understandable mistake of assuming that life must be lovely for the landlords.

"After all," people are wont to remark, "the hotel management has more business than it can take care of. Wish I had a few more rooms to rent—I'd put in a desk clerk and call it a hotel!"

And that, brother, would be a move you'd probably regret for many, many months.

After talking to countless hotel managers, clerks, assistant managers, cashiers, telephone operators, maids, bellboys and the like, this correspondent has come to the conclusion that most of them would be much, much happier if business weren't quite so good.

"For one thing, people are always mad at you if you can't fix them up with a room," said Fred Joyce, public relations chief of the Hilton hotel chain. "And you'd be surprised how many of them still don't bother to make reservations."

In this day and age, failing to make reservations is sheer treason from the hotel man's point of view. The unprecedented crowding of hotels has been one of the most widely-publicized phases of the nation's post-war life. Nevertheless, I stood in the lobby of the Stevens for hours one day, watching literally hundreds of hopeful people come naively up to the window without a trace of a reservation.

Simultaneously, additional hundreds—during the course of the day—sat around the lobby in the middle of their baggage, waiting and hoping that someone might cancel a reservation and let them in.

"We call them 'hopers'," a bellboy grinned, "but 'hopeless' probably would be a better word."

An even worse problem than these innocents abroad without a confirmed reservation is found in the people who won't keep their word when it comes to giving up a room on a certain date.

This is a constant, daily, nagging headache—but recently it reached the proportions of an epidemic.

There was a big business convention in Chicago. Many of the men scheduled to attend did nothing about getting hotel space until the last few days. Then it was too late. Hotels all over town wired back, informing them their reservations could not be accepted.

Several thousand of the men suddenly got the same idea. The convention did not start until Monday, so they came to town on Friday or Saturday, managing to get rooms on a one or two-night basis. They signed slips, agreeing to leave Sunday night.

But when Sunday night came, they were not ready to go. Their baggage and belongings remained in the rooms—and so did they. Meanwhile, they went out on the town and carefully skirted the main lobby so as not to catch the management's eye.

Monday, the additional thousands of convention-bound businessmen arrived with confirmed reservations in their hands. The chaos and confusion which followed still makes hotel men shudder.

In order to save as many people as possible from the park-bench fate, many hotels turn their famous ballrooms into men's and women's dormitories with cots—often with no charge, but as a goodwill gesture. Naturally, it is an exceedingly expensive proposition.

Then, when word sifts back that the people who benefited from such favors went home and complained about having to sleep on cots—without mentioning that it was free—hotel men froth at the mouth.

But even they can understand the complaints of a certain type of client. For some unknown reason, honeymooners are the worst offenders when it comes to ignoring the necessity of reservations. They arrive at the hotel in a romantic haze, try to check in for their wedding night, and discover there are no rooms left.

"Even so, we're in favor of people getting married, so we try to take care of them," Joyce said with a grin. "But sometimes it means separating them for the night on the cot system, and even though it's free somehow they don't seem to appreciate it."

Bolivia Presents Example of New Thought.

WASHINGTON — In formulating American policy around the globe, our policy-makers tend to rely on political labels. Too often it seems to me, they fail to look at the economic reality behind those labels.

Recently in the news was an interesting example of what this means. When revolutionists in Bolivia stormed the palace and assassinated President Gualberto Villaroel, we in the United States tended to take a selfrighteous attitude. We said that he had collaborated with the Nazis and that therefore he got what he deserved.

But a second look, now that the passions of the moment have cooled, shows that this was an oversimplification and perhaps, from the point of view of America's long-time future, a dangerous oversimplification.

A fact generally overlooked is that Villaroel had begun to try to raise the living standards of the miserable Indians who dig in Bolivia's tin mines.

Laurence Duggan, formerly head of the Latin-American division in the state department, has this to say in the current issue of the inter-American:

"Villaroel himself was a conscientious man with a puritanical determination to elevate national morals. He wanted to give land to the Indians and to shake the country loose from the political vise of the tin magnates."

As Duggan, who is badly needed in a policy-making role in Washington, makes clear, Villaroel was involved with dubious intriguers. Among his military confederates were men who wanted to impose the fascist pattern on Bolivia. They used familiar weapons of violence to achieve their ends.

The fact remains, however, that in feudal Bolivia they took steps to advance the lot of the poorest and most oppressed class. Housing projects were accelerated. Laws were adopted to prevent the companies from crushing the miners' struggling trade unions. Wage boards were created to hear requests for higher wages. While freedom of expression was suppressed for a time, newspapers in the months preceding the recent revolution printed violent attacks on the government.

Was the revolution, then, a triumph of liberal-progressive forces over Fascism? Ernest Galarza, until recently head of the labor division of the Pan-American union, says no. Galarza visited Bolivia during the Villaroel regime and studied the reform measures introduced by the late president.

Resigning his position with the Pan-American union to be free to express his views on Bolivia, Galarza points out that today representatives of the all-powerful tin cartel are returning to power in Bolivia. He points to key positions being filled by men who were agents for the tin trust which has customarily held the country in subjection.

For most of us, the Bolivian revolution may seem to have been just another of those Latin-American upsets; a little bloodshed, a new regime, a new set of unpronounceable names. Why should we be bothered about it?

There is a good answer to that question and we here in North America had better think about it. In Bolivia on one side of the world, in Iran on the other side—everywhere — change is taking place. The feudal pattern, where a few very rich men run things to suit themselves, is breaking up. With the radio, the airplane, change was bound to come.

The great danger is that we in the United States will be identified, in the minds of those who are now moving out of the primitive past with the tiny minority which is trying to prevent the change from happening.

We will seem always to be lined up with the tight little clique that wants to keep things just as they are. To put it more bluntly, the United States will be aligned with reaction and injustice.

It so happens that Bolivia furnishes an excellent example of our failure to use our great bargaining power on the side of inevitable change.

The obvious political labels are not enough. In Iran, in Bolivia, wherever the great tide of change has set in, we must look behind the labels at what is actually happening.

Joseph Alsop

Russia Angling for Control of Germany.

BERLIN—The United States has now begun a struggle for Germany against the Soviet Union. The decision to do so—one of the gravest ever made by American statesmen—was taken for two reasons. It was made necessary by the competition between the Soviet and western systems which is now going on all over the world. It was precipitated by Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov's statement to the foreign ministers meeting in Paris on July 14, which first disclosed Soviet purposes beyond any possibility of doubt.

The great American decision must be understood as a direct, unavoidable response to Soviet policy in Germany. From the first, this has been based on Lenin's terse but truthful dictum, "Who controls Germany, controls Europe."

The opening move of the campaign to incorporate Germany in the Soviet system actually occurred before the formal surrender. While Berlin was still in flames, the Soviet commander ordered a performance at the state opera house. Smoke and the stench of corpses were heavy in the nostrils of guests who picked their way through the ruins to the "revival of German culture under Soviet auspices."

From that day onward Soviet policy has not wavered. No method has been left untried, from such propaganda devices as the macabre reopening of the state opera to the kidnapping of courageous German socialists who have resisted being swallowed up by the Communists.

No tool has been left unused, from wooly-minded American officials to former Goebbels hirelings and Nazi youth leaders. Occasionally Soviet organization has not been equal to its task, as when the collapse of Russian army discipline in the moment of victory resulted in a vast, hideous carnival of raping and looting.

But the long-objective, of transforming Germany into a decisive westward extension of the Soviet system, has never been changed for an instant.

Without mincing words, the purpose of the new American policy is to deny control of Germany, and therefore of Europe, to the Soviet Union.

Statesmen on public rostrums do not of course speak so plainly. Yet that was the real motive of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' reply to Molotov in Paris —which was to demand immediate economic unification of Germany, and to announce that the United States would make a start by uniting its zone of occupation with any or all of their zones. By this statement, Byrnes in effect invited the British to join with us in the great contest for Germany which has now been initiated.

Curiously enough, Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin was at first dismayed. The British are quite as determined as the Americans that control of Germany shall not pass to Russia. But Bevin at first felt that Byrnes was prematurely abandoning hope of inducing the Soviets to alter their policy. He reported in this sense to the cabinet when the foreign ministers left Paris.

Further study made the foreign office realize, however, that Byrnes' tactics were a remarkable blend of sublety and realism. Therefore the economic unification of the British and American zones of occupation is now being negotiated here in Berlin, and will soon be undertaken.

A Byrnes tactical theory was very simple, on the one hand, it was obvious there was no value in any scheme which did not assure true political and economic unification of Germany. It would actually be dangerous to enter into cumbersome and unworkable compromises which would give the illusion of unity but withhold the political and economic benefits.

Far better would be frank acceptance of the division of Germany, and a firm concentration of the efforts of the Western powers on putting Western Germany on its feet. On the other hand past experience proved that nothing but unworkable compromises could result from any ordinary negotiations with the Soviet. Therefore Byrnes decided to join the American and British zones; take all needed measures to improve the economic and political health of this region; and thus to confront the Soviets with an accomplished fact which they could take or leave as they chose.

Our new policy, in truth, is a policy of maximum and minimum objectives.

Now that they are confronted with an accomplished fact, the Soviets are giving evidences of sore temptation to join with us and the British on terms we can agree to.

This is natural, for we have both a carrot and a stick to move them. The carrot is reparations, desperately needed to supplement the war-damaged Soviet economy. The stick is the Ruhr, the greatest industrial area in Europe, which the Kremlin policy-makers deeply fear to see under the complete control of the Western powers.

To secure any change of Soviet policy in Germany by these means is our maximum objective. But if the carrot and the stick do not do their job, we are at least making a start towards our minimum objective. This is to bring Western Germany back to life as a part of the western system.

The new American policy implies final abandonment of any idea of "pastoralizing" Germany. Quite aside from the fact that democracy and bitter hunger cannot live together, "pastoralization" would defeat the whole plan on which we have now embarked.

But before the "pastoralizers" at home begin to cry out against the new American policy, they would do well to examine carefully and weigh prayerfully the realities of Soviet policy.

A STUB NEVER HEALS
DECAY EATS INTO THE HEART OF THE TREE
CUT MADE CLOSE TO THE TRUNK HEALS PROPERLY

Simple Surgery Often Saves Trees

Gardeners can paraphrase the old saying into a cut in time saves nine, for simple surgery often saves the life of an ailing tree.

Due to an abundance of foliage or fruit, or both, many branches of fruit trees in the home garden may have been broken during wind storms. If so, prepare to sacrifice a limb to save a life.

Large branches should be cut back, at a point close to the trunk of the tree. As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-graph, when a branch is removed, leaving a stub, the stub will not heal over. This allows decay to enter and eat its way towards the heart of the tree.

Where the branch has been removed correctly and cut flush with the trunk surface, the cut will heal and new growth will cover the wound, as illustrated. Paint cut surfaces on trees with a pruning compound.

Retaining turf under large trees is often a problem. Sometimes it will pay to replace straggly grass with a living tree mulch. This can be done by planting a ground cover under the tree, such as ivy, myrtle or pachysandra.

The use of a ground cover is beneficial to a tree as it helps to keep its roots cool. This is especially true in the case of a beech tree, or any other whose roots grow close to the surface.

Week-Long Pageantry of 92nd Ohio State Fair Comes To End After Setting Record

STATE FAIRGROUNDS, Columbus—(INS)—Little remained today of the week-long pageantry of the 92nd Ohio State fair.

The 128-acre fairgrounds appeared stripped and lonely as the last of concessionaries and exhibitors left the site.

Around the grounds moved a huge squad of clean-up men removing the litter and trash scattered by the record-breaking crowds.

Fair officials rested for the first time in three weeks, happy in the knowledge that the first Buckeye exposition in five years established new all-time marks for both attendance and receipts.

Fair Manager Bryan P. Sandles announced shortly before closing time last night that the 1927 fair would be held the week of Aug. 23-29.

Next year's exposition also will be held at the northside Columbus site, although fair officials and Gov. Lausche are hopeful that the next general assembly will vote money for new grounds.

The final days attendance of 14,104 failed for the first time during the week to break the daily gate record.

The gates were thrown open after 6 p. m, night visitors entering the grounds without cost.

During final hours of the fair came complaints from numerous juvenile workers who claimed that concessionaries failed to pay the hourly rates first promised.

Sandles said he would investigate the reports, but promised no definite action.

Auditors figures showed that 352,068 persons paid their way through the gates during the seven-day stand.

In the little competition of the last day, two 14-year-old 4-H clubbers from opposite ends of the state were named "the healthiest boy and girl" of the fair.

Winner of the boys' exams was Raymond Pergram of Trenton, Butler county, and for the girls, Jo Anne Herlacher of Independence.

The trotting program ended with a three overnight-event card.

Approximately 2,000 persons watched the final races.

Firemen Answer Two Calls At Tire Plant, False Alarm.

Flash fires in tire machines at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company were responsible for two runs by the Mansfield fire department last night.

Firemen said the blazes were propably caused by static electricity in the machines. The first run was made at 5:16 p. m. and the second at 8:57 p. m.

A truck which backed into a fire alarm box in the vicinity of the Westinghouse plant had firemen hurrying to that section of the city at 5:41 p. m. There was no fire.

Farmers Meet In Plymouth

Hundreds of northern Ohio farmers and their families are expected to gather in Plymouth Sunday for the fourth annual Farmers' picnic at Mary Fate park.

They will talk over crop conditions, the price outlook, and a lot of other things that interest rural dwellers, and then they'll hear talks on farm problems by Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the Ohio 17th district and William Lemke of North Dakota.

The picnic is sponsored by the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association. The Ganges band will play a concert during the afternoon. There will be a basket dinner at noon.

Vet Seeks To Divorce British Bride

Complaint of a Mansfield man who met, married and now would divorce his English wife was on file today in common pleas court.

Leslyne N. Greene, who was employed as an interior decorator in Mansfield before his army induction more than four years ago, filed the divorce action yesterday against Evelyn Peters Greene, of Dorset, England, charging her with neglect and cruelty.

The couple was married in Dorchester, England, on May 27, 1944, just 10 days before the D-day invasion in which Greene was wounded. He said that he found his wife changed in her regard for him when he returned to England. Attorney C. J. Kalbfleisch represents the plaintiff.

NO MATTER how great the probabilities may be in favor of making a particular play, they cannot be preferable to an absolutely sure thing. That is the reason why it is unsound to finesse against a queen in the hand you are reasonably sure contains it, if you can make the other side lead the suit instead. If you are in position to finesse either direction, a lead of the suit assures your success without having to guess.

After West led his heart Q, which was ruffed by the club 5, South took stock. He saw that he must lose a trick in diamonds and probably one in clubs. If he also lost one in spades, he would be down. He was reasonably sure that West had the spade Q, against which an ordinary finesse would work, but he was not quite sure of it, and it is a good thing he was not. He found out how to play the hand without making a guess regarding the spade Q.

Preparing to eliminate hearts and diamonds from both his holdings, he laid down the diamond K to the second trick. West won with the A and returned the heart 10, which was trumped with the club 8. The diamond 4 was led to the J and the heart 7 ruffed by the club 9. The club A was laid down, then the diamond Q. West would have had only hearts and spades left, and didn't like to trump this, discarded a heart. Then the [illegible]nd 6 was ruffed by the club [illegible], West trashing another heart.

When the club 6 was then led to the Q, West had to use his club K. In the lead, he was helpless. A heart would have brought a ruff in dummy and discard of the spade 7. West could forsee this, so led his spade 8. That did no good either. It trapped the Q to assure the contract. South was surprised when he saw that East held that important card, and was glad he had not taken it for granted as being with West.

Shoo Moths, Or Keep a Patch Handy

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Shoo the moths out of that suit, gents. It may have to last another two years.

A civilian production administration man told a reporter today that these are the bare facts on men's clothes:

Fifteen million men still will be hunting suits on Dec. 31, 1946.

Not until 1948 will suits be plentiful enough for men to be choosey.

The shirt scarcity will last for a year.

There'll be a shorts shortage for six to 12 months.

Yes, sighed the CPA man, a trifle enviously, the girls are better off. That's because, so manufacturers say, there is more profit in turning out women's garments.

According to the CPA man, women now get almost all the slips and underpretties they need. Most of the city women are well fixed for hose, although some rural dwellers still have rayon and nylon troubles.

He said there are plenty of pretty women's suits but that they cost a pretty penny, too. Sports clothes have been so plentiful some shops are sending shipments back to the manufacturers.

If the girls have any real gripe, it's because there will be no real style changes until sometime after March 31, 1947. That's when CPA goes out of business.

The CPA has kept styles pretty well tied down with order No. L-85. This limits the length of the skirt, the size of the hem (not more than two inches), the length of the sleeves and the fullness of the sleeves and dress.

"If we let the line down as much as two inches," said the CPA man, "it would take 50,000,000 more yards of goods."

Furthermore, he said, if skirtlines drop all wardrobes would be out-of-date instantly. Then instead of wearing out what they have, the gals would dash out to buy more suits and dresses.

"And there would go badly needed shirts, shorts and suits for men.

"We've got to hold the skirt line."

BUCYRUS — Four first place ribbons, three for second place, two thirds, four fourth places and many honorable mentions went to Crawford county exhibitors in the Poland China hog classes at the Ohio State fair, a check of awards disclosed today.

Henry Steiger, president of the Ohio Association of Poland China Breeders, Liberty township, took first prize in the senior boar pig class; first in the get of sire; second in the young herd, third in the junior sow pig, fourth in produce of dam, fifth in senior boar pig, sixth and seventh in junior yearling sow, and 17th in the national futurity classes.

Others in the county receiving ribbons were A. J. Young and son, Tod township; Choice Culver, Texas township; Harold Steiger, Sulphur Springs; Charles Graham, Mt. Zion; Wayne McDowell, Holmes Liberty, and Lewis Young, Holmes Liberty.

STILL CLIMBING

County's Sales Tax Revenue Up to $620,524.

Sales tax revenue in Richland county to mid-August climbed to $620,524, nearly $200,000 ahead of the corresponding period last year, the state treasurer's report showed today.

Collections during the first seven and a half months last year totaled $433,082. Receipts for the week ended Aug. 17 amounted to $19,156 as compared with only $7,877 in that week last year.

The V-J day observance fell during the period last August, helping to reduce revenue, while release of many commodities, including new automobiles, has been responsible for the big increase in retail sales this August.

Ohioana Library Preserves Store of Facts About State

COLUMBUS—(UP)—In 1833 Columbus was "a flourishing post town," Cincinnati was the largest city in the "western" United States, with a population of 29,000, and Cleveland was a trading post that "bid fair to become one of the most important towns" in Ohio.

These are among the more revealing glimpses into history that are searched out and preserved by the Ohioana Library, a private collection housed in the state library here.

The "Ohio Gazetteer" is the book that listed these facts about the Buckeye state for up-to-the-minute readers more than a century ago. It is only one of the rare items in the Ohioana collection.

In 1833, the talk of Columbus was the new prison that was to be completed the following year. "Elegant, spacious and durable," it was to house 500 convicts. (Present prison population: 3,614.)

Zanesville was the second largest city in Ohio in 1833. It had a population of 5,200. Toledo is not even mentioned by the "Gazetteer," and Akron was another "flourishing post town" of 350 souls.

Dayton was considerably more advanced. It had "15 taxed stores, six taverns, 13 practicing attorneys and 11 physicians."

The Ohioana collection goes far beyond mere historical curios. Mrs. Depew Head, executive director of the library, displayed an as-yet incomplete collection of first editions of the books of William Dean Howells, world-renowned American novelist of the Nineteenth Century, who wrote several of his books in Ohio.

Endowed Library.

The Ohioana Library was endowed in 1929 by Mrs. Martha Kinney Cooper to gather a full sampling of all works written by Ohioans, native or resident, or about Ohio or Ohioans. Music and art also are sought after.

The most recent acquisition, for example, is a scrapbook presented by Stevan Dohanos, best-known for his illustrations on the covers of recent issues of the Saturday Evening Post. Dohanos is a native Ohioan whose work has appeared in nearly all of the leading magazines of America.

Many of the exhibits in the Ohioana Library were found only after years of search through second-hand bookshops. One, for instance, is "The Philosophy of the Plays of Shakespeare" by Delia Salter Bacon.

This book, published in 1857 with an introduction by Nathaniel Hawthorne himself, could not be located anywhere in this country. After literally years of research a copy was obtained and shipped over from England.

Other rare items of Ohioana were presented by private collectors or authors themselves. A number of books in the Howels First Edition collection came from the library of the famed author's son, who now lives in Maine and has the only complete set of his father's first editions known to the Ohioana board of trustees.

However, the Ohioana Library is not just an intellectual collection depot. It awards annual prizes to authors judged to have done the finest work in Ohioana, both in fiction and non-fiction.

Nine Lettermen Among 45 Gridders Drilling at Madison

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—If baseball really is serious about "benefits" for players, the International league's publicist-historian, Harry Simmons, offers a plan which should easily take care of that pension fund. . . . Instead of just a series of exhibitions, Harry proposes a "cup playoff" involving all 16 big league teams. . . . The first round, matching the natural rivals such as Giants and Yankees, would be played in May. The survivors, divided by sections, would play the second round in June. They'd skip July because of the all-star game, play the semi-finals in August and an East-West final in September. Then, as a final touch, Harry suggests the boredom of the all-star game could be removed by taking $2,000 from the receipts of each game to make a $30,000 pot for the winning all-star team.

WEAK END ITEMS.

Michigan appears to be out in front in the football captains race with five, Art Renner (1946), Joe Ponsetto (1945), Bruce Hilkene (1945 captain-elect who was shifted by the navy), Bob Wiese (1944) and Paul White (1943) all trying for varsity berths. . . . Trying desperately to uphold Tami Mauriello's chances against Joe Louis, Dumb Dan Morgan maintains: "Tami's a bartender and so to him any heavyweight looks like just another bum to be thrown through them swinging doors."

AA Leaders Open Series

(By Associated Press)

With only 1½ games separating them in the torrid battle for the pennant, league-leading Louisville and Indianapolis open the first of a three game series today, climaxed by a doubleheader Sunday, which might well determine the champion as the American Association campaign enters its final stages.

The first series, at Indianapolis, will shift to Louisville Monday for a second run of three games.

* * *

Meanwhile, Minneapolis takes on its Twin City rival, St. Paul in the only afternoon engagement of the day while Milwaukee entertains Kansas City and Toledo plays at Columbus under the lights.

* * *

With St. Paul firmly entrenched in third place, Minneapolis and Milwaukee will be battling for fourth and a playoff spot.

Minneapolis climbed to within 1½ games of the first division last night by beating the Saints 7-3 in the only league game scheduled.

Loans Play Final Game at Home

Provident Loan girls' softball team will make its final start before the home town fans tomorrow afternoon at North Lake park when Six Oaks of Worthington comes here for a single game starting at 2 30.

Either Marie Evertts or Marty Shaffer will hurl for the locals.

Monday afternoon the local team will make its final start be-to play the Akron Merchants in one of the athletic attractions during the Labor day celebration.

Jeff DeHaven's Rams Open With Wildcats

By FRED THARP

Mansfield Madison's hard-working 1946 gridiron machine concluded its second week of training with a two-hour drill on the Rams' field this morning.

Jeff DeHaven, starting his fourth year as Madison mentor, has been impressed by the dash and verve of his 45 grid hopefuls and indications point to another good season. The Rams copped six of eight regular tilts last year.

In a playoff for the 1945 Northeastern Buckeye league title DeHaven's eleven dropped a 20 to 0 decision to Orrville in the mud at Stadium field.

Nine lettermen are in the group now working out and another—Guard Martin Hall—will report when school begins next week. DeHaven expects his squad to be swelled by at least ten more candidates when school opens.

The returning lettermen are: Ed Thomas, end; Capt. Jack Cleckner and Dan Stevens, tackles; Bob Gottfried and Hall, guards; Charles Campbell, center, and Jack Herr, Dick Schuttera, Kenneth Gabor and Herb Eldridge, backs.

Cleckner and Herr have won two monograms apiece and the latter will handle the Rams punting and place-kicking this season. Herr, a 160-pound wingback, also is a good ball carrier.

Eldridge played guard last season but was moved to tailback to use his speed and passing ability. He has been alternating with Dick Ernsberger in aerial drills.

Eldon Pritchard, 1945 sub and Madison basketball center, has been one of the better pass receivers in the workouts.

Another surprise has been the aggressive play of Mike Tormaschy, a tough guard of the watch-charm variety. He's up from the reserves.

The Rams use a single-wing backfield formation behind a balanced line. Tentative backfield has Schuttera, quarter; Herr and Eldridge, halves, and Ernsberger at full. The latter was second-string fullback last year.

Madison will play five league contests this season and has non-loop tilts listed with New London, Oberlin and Fredericktown. Oberlin is a new addition to the schedule. The Rams and New London play in the seasonal opener Saturday night, Sept. 14, on the Madison gridiron.

Home league games are with Loudonville and Millersburg, while the Rams meet Orrville, Rittman and Doylestown on the road.

Last season DeHaven's club dropped its first pair of games to New London (6-0), and Norwalk (12-0). However, the Mansfield eleven snapped back to win six straight, Rittman (20-0), Loudonville (31-7), Doylestown (31-0), Fredericktown (6-0), Willard (12-0) and Crestline (12-2).

DeHaven is being assisted by Nick Weber and Bill Kopcial. Weber coaches the backs and Kopcial handles the reserve squad. Kopcial was an assistant coach at Madison before entering the army and has returned to his teaching duties this fall.

Tentative varsity squad follows:

Ends—Thomas, Pritchard, Don Morris, Dick Glenn, Alex Bosko, Dick Shambre.

Tackles—Cleckner, Stevens, Walter Armstrong, Eugene Willging, Dick Reinhardt.

Guards—Gottfried, Tormaschy, Hall, Don Cornell, Dale Treese.

Centers—Campbell, Bob Wilson.

Backs—Herr, Shuttera, Gabor, Ernsberger Eldridge, Don Walker, Wayne Strang, Richard Brown, Eugene Malott.

Gain Semis In Women's Open Golf Tourney

SPOKANE, Wash.—(UP)—The professionals and the amateurs get together today in the semi-finals of the Women's National Open golf tournament—with Patty Berg, the Minneapolis redhead, still the girl to beat to win the major money in the $19,700 event.

While Miss Berg was disposing of Mrs. Jackie Pung, the Hawaiian amateur champion, 6 and 5, to enter the round of four, the newest threat to the supremacy of the professionals arose in the person of Dorothy Kielty, the Long Beach, Cal., star.

* * *

Miss Kielty came through with a surprise 2 and 1 victory over the veteran tournament campaigner, Clara Callender Sherman, and will meet Betty Jameson in one half of the lower bracket.

Miss Jameson defeated amateur Ellen Kieser, San Francisco, 8 and 6, to enter the semis. In the other match of the day Betty Jean Rucker, the pride and joy of Spokane, thumped Betty Hicks, the duration National Amateur champion, 5 and 4, and will play Miss Berg.

The semi-finals are scheduled over the 36-hole route, as will be the final match on Sunday.

Dayton Keeps On Winning

(By Associated Press)

The last-place Dayton Indians Saturday were sporting their longest string of victories this season in the Ohio State league.

By beating league-leading Springfield 9-8 and 5-4 at Dayton Friday night, the Indians ran the string to seven games. Shortstop Lu Urcho slugged a homer in the opener and a single that drove in the winning run of the nightcap.

The lowly Indians have much the best record in the eight-club loop for August—23 won against 14 lost for a percentage of .622. Springfield's first-place percentage is .583.

But the Indians are still two games behind seventh-place Middletown, which won a home game from Lima 5-4 Friday night on Tony Salamone's last-inning triple.

Springfield's loss enabled second-place Zanesville, idle Friday along with Marion and Newark, to move within a game of the lead.

FACE ALUMNI

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus high school Redmen are scheduled for their first scrimmage this afternoon against alumni. The workout will take place at 3 30 on Lake street field under the watchful eyes of new Head Coach Al Pesek and Assistant Coach Donald Burkey.

A Couple of Pretty Fair Country Ball Players May Capture Major League Hitting Honors

NEW YORK—(UP)—Stan Musial of St. Louis, batting 371 and Washington's Jim Vernon, hitting .342 led all major league batters today and it appeared that those two first basemen might take the 1946 National and American batting championships unless such outfielders as Brooklyn's Dixie Walker and Boston's Ted Williams make a September spurt.

Musial sparking the Cardinal pennant push from the No 3 position in the St Louis lineup has collected 47 hits in his last 112 times at bat. His 184 hits, 99 runs scored 39 two-base hits and 17 triples are also top figures in National statistics.

Vernon has led the American race since the last week in May, except for a two-day period in mid-July when Williams gained a one-point edge.

* *

Johnny Pesky of Boston and his teammate, Williams, standing 2-3 in the American race, were one and two points, respectively, behind Vernon before yesterday's doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics, but both Red Soxers ended the afternoon with a .338 average.

* *

Dom DiMaggio, however moved from a fourth-place tie to fourth place and upped his average to .328 by getting four hits in eight times at bat against the A's Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox, hitting 325, was idle and DiMaggio's three-point jump left him in fifth position.

Johnny Hopp of the Boston Braves and Dixie Walker of Brooklyn were Musial's closest rivals in the National. Hopp, hitting 361 was maintaining a steady pace. His average was only two points under the mark he posted two weeks ago, but Walker's 344 was 18 points less than his July average.

Johnny Mize of the Giants was still idle with an injured hand but his 339 percentage kept him in fourth place while Phil Cavarretta of Chicago and Sid Gordon of the Giants, both hitting .306, were tied for fifth position in the National's big five.

Significantly, the Cardinals backed up their newly-won first place honors in the National by taking over the loop's fielding honors and by raising their club batting average to a first-place tie with Brooklyn. Both the Cardinals and the Dodgers were batting .263 as a team.

* * *

The Cardinals were fielding at a .979 pace, two points better than the Chicago Cubs, but Brooklyn's .970 percentage put them in a last-place tie with Pittsburgh in club fielding.

Dave Ferriss of the Boston Red Sox boasting a 23-4 record, was the leading big league pitcher and his string of 10 consecutive victories was still intact although the Detroit Tigers battered Ferriss and four other Red Sox hurlers in winning a 14-inning game on Thursday.

In the National, Ted Wilks of the Cardinals had a perfect 6-0 record but Kirby Higbe of Brooklyn, Murry Dickson and Howie Pollet of St. Louis were the league's top starting pitchers. Higbe had a 13-4 record Dickson had 12 wins against four defeats and Pollet had 17 victories against seven losses.

Hogan's Five-Under Par 66 Good For Lead In LA Play

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—The $15,000 Golden State Open golf tournament moved into its second day today with little Ben Hogan, 135-pound Hershey, Pa., dynamo, just one stroke in front of the field.

Hogan, shooting consistently at or below par, went around the course in a five-below-par 66, one better than Herman Keiser, Akron, winner of the Bobby Jones Masters' tourney.

Tied at 69 for third place were Tony Penna, Cincinnati, Art Stewart, Los Angeles, and Jack Gage, San Bernardino, Calif.

Most of the 3,000 spectators stuck with Hogan as the pint-sized national PGA king, top money winner so far this season, left 143 of the nation's top amateurs and professionals in the dust in his first peek at the tricky par-71 California Country club course. He frequently asked his caddy's advice on the lay of the course.

Hogan, the pre-tourney favorite, shot five birdies and 13 par holes in the initial round of his four-day drive for the $2,500 top purse. He twice climbed out of tight spots to score birdies on the eighth and 12th holes, after finding himself behind a tree both times. He pushed a mighty second shot over the trees on the 509-yard eighth, then chipped on and sunk a four-footer.

* * *

After shaking his tree trouble at the 449-yard 12th, Hogan chipped over a trap to the green and dropped a 20-footer. A seven-footer on the ninth, a three-footer on the 13th and a seven-footer on the 17th accounted for his other birdies.

* * *

Lowest out nine of the day was second-place Keiser's 33. He birdied on the first, fourth, eighth 12th and 16th.

Penna made up an early handicap with flashy deuces on the four-par fifth and 13th, canning the ball on the fly in both cases.

Another threat to Hogan was ex-tennis star Ellsworth Vines, whose golf laurels so far have included the Massachusetts State Open crown and a second-place at the All-America Open at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter. Vines began the round with three successive birdies to end the first nine two under par, but slumped to a one-over par 36 on the in turn.

Today's schedule features another 18 holes by all entrants The 90 low scorers will have at it again Sunday, with the low 60 booked for the Labor day runoff Monday.

Title at Stake In Sheby Loop

SHELBY—Championships of the second half of the Shelby softball league will be at stake when the second half leading Eagles meet the Shelby Salesbook company Tuesday night at 5:45 on the waterworks field

The Eagles hold undisputed first place in the league with six wins out of seven games. The Salesbook, first half champion, holds second place with seven wins out of nine games

A win for the Salesbook will assure it a share of the second half title, while the Eagles will have two other games to win in postponed titles next week. On Wednesday night, the Eagles play the CIO and a tied game between the second half leaders and the depot has not been re-scheduled as yet

Besides the three games to be played by the Eagles and opponents, the Laubie nine has a game to be played with the depot that was postponed earlier in the second half.

Red Sox Out To Top 1915 High of 101

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

If the pennant bound Boston Red Sox continue at their present pace, they should wind up the season with the most games ever won by a Boston team.

Having already bagged 90 of 130 games for a .692 percentage, the American league pace-setters can top their 1912 high of 105 victories provided they win 16 of their remaining 24 games—a .667 pace.

Only in 1915 did any Boston aggregation reach the century figure in games won. That year the Sox won 101 games and the American league pennant.

* * *

In the only scheduled American league games yesterday, the Sox pasted the visiting Philadelphia Athletics twice 6-0 and 6-2 for their 14th and 15th victories in 18 meetings with the cellarites.

* * *

Tex Hughson fashioned the first game shutout, limiting the Mackmen to four hits for his 15th triumph and his fifth by a shutout. A five run fifth inning against Luther Knerr clinched the verdict Jim Bagby allowed only five Philly hits in the nightcap.

The pair of victories increased the Red Sox margin over the second place New York Yankees to 13½ games.

The Philadelphia Phils increased their sixth place margin over the Giants to two games by defeating the New Yorkers 4-3 under the polo grounds lights in the only National league game.

62nd Annual Rifle, Pistol Meet Opens

CAMP PERRY—(AP)—That trigger-happy segment of the nation's peacetime population which regards a bullseye as the prettiest sight on earth came home to the range today—rifle range, that is—for the 62nd annual national rifle and pistal championships.

After a four-year wartime lapse, the competition was revived at this Ohio National Guard camp where the crack shots of both sexes started blazing away in 1907.

* * *

Opening as usual with a three-day small arms firing school sponsored by the war department, the meet will continue through Sept. 8. More than 1,200 of the squint-eyed gentry will participate. Actual firing starts Tuesday.

* * *

When the marksmen are ready on the firing line, the rifle champions IP held by Ransford D. Triggs of Madison, N. J.; the pistol crown worn by Sgt. Harry Reeves of the Detroit police department and the national service pistol championship held by Lee Echols of Laredo, Tex., member of the U. S. treasury border patrol, will be at stake.

Browns Whip Dodgers In Exhibition Tilt

By HAL CLAWSON, News-Journal Sports Editor.

AKRON—Northern Ohio football fans got their first taste of what to expect from the new All-America professional grid circuit here last night.

An overflowing throng of 35,694 grid fans jammed the Akron Rubber Bowl as the Cleveland Browns defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition tilt, 35-20.

It was the third exhibition contest of the season for the Dodgers and the first for the Browns.

Coach Paul Brown's club was not too impressive during the first two periods and took their half-time rest on the short end of a 13-7 count.

But it was their second stanza play that caught the eye of the fans. Playing heads-up ball and taking advantage of all breaks, the Browns pushed over two more tallies in each of the third and fourth periods.

Joe Davis scored for the Dodgers in the first period on a pass from Glen Dobbs and then in the second period, Jim McCarthy faked an attempt for a field goal and went 25 yards to score.

After driving 77 yards in five plays, Cliff Lewis tossed a pass to Dippy Evans for the first marker in the closing minutes of the second period.

* * *

Cleveland's two touchdowns in the third period came when John Rokisky grabbed a Dodger fumble and raced 55 yards to score and then when Otto Graham threw a touchdown pass to Mac Speedie to give the Browns a 21-13 lead.

* * *

Evans intercepted a Dobbs pass in the fourth period and traveled 83 yards behind some beautiful blocking. George Young reeled off a 40-yard touchdown run in the closing minutes for the fifth Brown score.

A Dobbs pass in the last minute to Calvin Purdin gave the Dodgers their final tally.

Lou Grozza, the big Martins Ferry lad, kicked all five of the Browns' extra points.

Bixler Not Worried About Vets

COLUMBUS—(AP)—As Ohio State university's 1946 football candidates wind up their first week of practice today, Coach Paul Bixler is "not worried a bit" about his boys who've come back to the gridiron after several years in the armed services.

"They've got the same old aggressive go and fire they had before," Bixler said. "It's a bit tough for those who've come back overweight," he added, "but we've come along very well."

About half of the present Buck squad are veterans. The 270 men who turned out for the initial practice meeting Monday have been trimmed down to about 110, and Bixler says "we'll leave it go at that now for a while, working half outside and half in."

* * *

Bixler planned light scrimmage emphasizing "running and offensive" as a part of today's workouts. Contact work has been limited to periods of 10 or 15 minutes every afternoon.

* * *

Minor injuries caused Alex Verdova, Lakewood, O., halfback, and Charles Fazio, Marion, O., tackle, to miss workouts in the past week, but Bixler said the rest of his mainstays were in tiptop shape.

The two-a-day practice sessions will continue until the Monday preceding the Missouri game here Sept. 28, then drill will go on a once-a-day schedule, Bixler said.

100 Hopefuls Try For Dayton Team

DAYTON—Coach Harry Baujan, beginning his twenty-fifth year at the University of Dayton, started official football practice this week with a hundred hopeful gridders seeking places on the Flyer team. Baujan and his staff have just a month to whip a team into shape before the season opener against Wachita, Sept. 28.

Dayton is resuming varsity play after a three year layoff due to the war. Most of the candidates for the 1946 squad are ex-servicemen and ten lettermen from the 1942 season are returning.

VETS BOWL TONIGHT

All veterans who would like to bowl in the AVC bowling league are invited to be at the Colony lanes tonight at 7 o'clock. Jack Snyder is in charge of the league.

Pebble Beach Jumps Lead

Pebble Beach increased its championship lead to eight-points as the Westbrook Twilight golf league concluded its 1946 schedule last night.

The Pebble Beach quartet defeated Inverness, 4 to 1, to lead Canterbury in point-totals, 56 to 48. Canterbury lost to Olympia Fields, 2 to 1.

Al Hager, Pebble Beach and Gene Zediker, Cherry Hills, split medalist laurels with 37's.

4TH GAME WINNER

Tribe To Get Help In '47

CHICAGO — (AP) — Cleveland's skidding Indians today bid for undisputed claim to fifth place as they opened a two-game series against the co-claimant, the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Lou Boudreau, troubled by the Tribe's nine losses in ten eastern starts, named Charles (Red) Embree to oppose Southpaw Ed Lopat on the mound.

Boudreau's brow lost a couple of furrows yesterday after receiving assurance from President Bill Veeck that the Indians would "have a ball club next season."

"I don't know how or where we'll get the help as of right now, but I will get the players either by purchase or trade," Veeck told his young manager before the Tribe met—and beat—the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association 7 to 6 in an exhibition game played in Milwaukee.

Buffalo Edges Miami, 23-21

BALTIMORE, Md. —(UP)— The first eastern game between two All-America conference teams was acclaimed a success today by 16,000 Baltimore fans who saw the Buffalo Bisons edge the Miami Seahawks, 23 to 21, in an exhibition last night.

It was an exciting game all the way, featured by long runs and passes. Miami scored first after recovering a fumble, but Steve Juzwik's 50-yard run tied it up. Buffalo took the lead in the second quarter on a 33-yard run by Kenny Stofer, and Bill Daddio made it 17 points for the period with a field goal.

Both were scoreless in the third period, and Buffalo scored on the second play of the last period on Bob Thurbon's 56-yard run. Miami came back for two touchdowns, one on Preston Johnson's 20-yard run and one on Stan Koslowski's 21-yard pass to Jimmy Nelson.

STEELERS WIN, 42-0

HERSHEY, Pa. — (UP) — Billy Dudley scored two touchdowns and kicked four extra points as the Pittsburgh Steelers ran up a 42 to 0 vistory over Newark of the American football league in an exhibition game last night.

Hitler's Top Leaders Give Final Pleas

Jack Lait On Broadway

A BRIGHT young woman sent in her name—Marianne De Graft, representing the Brooklyn Eagle. She wanted to "interview" me. I took her to lunch at the Palm, that picturesque hangout for our craft, around the corner. The youngster wanted to know about the forthcoming book—which hasn't been announced, but of which her editor had heard.

It's "New York—Confidential," a collaboration with Lee Mortimer, now being printed for Readers Press, and due, I think, in a fortnight or so. She wanted especially to ask about our treatment of Brooklyn. Well, I had to admit we rather neglected the big borough over the river, as the subject-matter is concentrated largely on Manhattan—Greenwich Village, Chinatown, Harlem, Park Avenue, and, especially Broadway. She asked:

"But—you're a Chicagoan, aren't you?"

I suppose, judging from my recent paragraphs, I am Chicago-minded. But I was a New Yorker in the first instance, moved to Chicago when I was 12, spent 18 happy years there, started my professional career there, loved that city as only an impressionable boy, growing to manhood in a community which treated him generously, where he was married and where his children were born, could love a place.

I have been a New Yorker again for more years than I had spent in Chicago. I returned here a virtual stranger. The Big Burg fascinated me. I had more Broadway contacts than most New Yorkers, for all the big shots had to come to Chicago, and there they were lonesome, and they were glad to mingle. I was for years on Variety—not full-time—and I talked their lingo. But, beyond theatrical personalities, it was all pretty new to me.

• • •

In "New York—Confidential," Mortimer (who was born in Chicago) and I have tried to set down what isn't in the guide-books. There's practically nothing about Grant's Tomb, the Statue of Liberty or the Empire State Building. But there's lots of lowdown on where the tourists can't crash, with case histories that aren't in the Sunday supplements and backstage scenery that isn't in the movies.

We will follow this up with "Hollywood—Confidential." I'm going there again next week, on my 67th visit. I have a home there. Mortimer, the Mirror movie reviewer and reporter, as well as the night-life columnist, has been there innumerable times, too. Then we will go all out—for the third of the series will be "Chicago—Confidential." That's one into which we'll really throw our hearts.

• • •

Chicago has changed much. The war affected its social life more than it did most big cities. And it has been undergoing metamorphoses for years. I have been there scores of times in a score of years. I noticed the changes a lot more than the natives there could. These we will study first-hand. Then, with the old Chicago that we knew as atmosphere for contrast, parallel and relief, we should knock off a revealing book.

There I lived through the gestation and birth of gangsterism as we now know it; there, also, I met the finest, squarest, liveliest and most colorful Americans of my life. That's one huge metropolis where one knows his neighbors; where everything is on a colossal scale, but nothing as much so as friendships; where we played harder, drank harder, worked harder, moved faster and lived more intensely than New York ever did or could.

Yes, I guess Marianne De Graff was right. I'm still a Chicagoan—Confidential!

Hal Boyle Globe-Jotting

By TOM REEDY
(For Hal Boyle)

BERCHTESGADEN — (AP) — Think no more of billion pengo notes, of black market steaks at ten bucks a bite, of broken down used cars at $1,500—once upon a time tea here cost $25,000 a cup.

Heinz Koerner, young suntanned former Wehrmacht soldier now employed at the fuehrer's "Eagle Nest" atop the mountain, provided this information.

Heinz doesn't have much to do except answer three mountainside telephones which keep ringing constantly. The telephones are used to keep traffic moving only one way at a time on the narrow, winding, breathtaking road to the fantastic hilltop hideaway.

This young German obviously had been here when the place was restricted to a super select clientele, although he labored hard to give the impression that he had spent much time as a prisoner of war in Italy. But Heinz knew the minute details of the furnishings in the "Eagle's Nest" and he had to have seen them to know that. The French army "liberated" everything that remained in the place when Germany fell.

Heinz told with the emphasis of a man who knows what he is talking about, that Hitler visited this dizzy retreat only five times, that Goering had been here only thrice and Martin Bormann, the deputy fuehrer, only ten times in all.

Each visit was for tea only. The house ironically is called a teahouse, although it can be reached only through tunnels which would be impassable if SS or Gestapo men were there as guards.

Heinz said the retreat never was used except to entertain at tea those "guests" who had settled some deal with the fuehrer at the Obersalzburg Chalet several thousand feet below. Heinz said that the retreat had cost $2,500,000.

Eighteen visits by the three Nazi big shots probably came to about 100 cups of tea. That's $25,000 a cup in rough figures in any language.

You can't get any tea at Berchtesgaden now, or even a drink of water. Germans tend the place and with what seems like very aloof reluctance take visitors to the top in the fancy bronze elevator, they show tourists the big glass enclosed room where anyone so inclined could build a few delusions of grandur through the drifting clouds, if he chose, and the few bare, cold looking appointments.

There are many more German visitors than Americans or other allied people. It is a three-hour climb on foot up the hill, but the hike loving Bavarians enjoy it.

They scowl at Jeeps and their occupants. One of them wasn't beyond giving the wrong directions for the trip back, directions which led to a narrow path that only a jeep could negotiate—and then precariously.

Another Bavarian, employed in the nest itself, was not beyond denying the existence of a rest room, although one was clearly visible through quarters used by the German attendants.

There's a big sign at Berchtesgaden that says: "Property of United States military government." But don't believe that for a minute. The Germans think they own it.

Finds Nation Flooded With Phony Whisky Concoctions

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—This nation seems to be flooded with phoney whisky, a fact which ordinarily would not bother a temperance leader like myself.

I have, however, been investigating these distillations of plum juice, soggy potatoes and, for all I know, old overshoes. They are colored brown with burnt sugar, flavored with baked wood chips, bottled at 100 proof, and likely to blister your gullet, eat holes in your stomach, and blow off the top of your head. I know.

As of now they're strictly legs. That's the [illegible], according to Frank R. Schwengel, president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, who has appealed to the internal revenue bureau to make the bottlers tell all on the label. Now they don't. The rest is [illegible] on the human body.

When the [illegible] Schwengel's firms go easy on whisky making to save grain, their competitors began bottling fluids known as rye and bourbon liqueurs. They look like whisky and (I must report shudderingly) taste frequently like something brewed by Scarface Al Capone.

The official figures give some idea. In the first six months of 1945, there was shipped in this country nearly [illegible] gallons of Creme de Menthe, Triple Sec, Goldwasser and perhaps 100 other flavors of the syrupy potions known as after-dinner liqueurs.

In the first six months of this year the consumption of cordials increased 76 per cent and the whisky distillers aren't talking about Creme de Violet, or Curacao, either. They claim the increase consisted of bourbon and rye liqueurs bought by folks who thought they were getting whisky.

"These substandard, emergency concoctions hoodwink the public and are a plague to the distilling industry's reputation," Schwengel said. "They are reminiscent of some of the low standard Caribbean and Mexican alcohol products which mushroomed in the market several years ago."

Only in Connecticut, he said, is there a law. Anybody who buys bourbon liqueur there finds on the bottle a special label which says "This is not whisky." If a nutmeg stater still insists on drinking it, that's his business and the Distilled Spirits Institute will wring no cold towels for him.

At some peril to my well-being I have made a personal investigation of Schwengel's case. I must announce that some brands of bourbon liqueur taste good. (I just stuck the tip of my tongue in the glass, of course, and then quickly washed out my mouth.) Some others taste like the liquid in the bottom of a coal car after a heavy rain.

That's not all. There is a brand of whisky, which contains 80 per cent alcohol from those plums, 20 per cent genuine whisky aged one month and caramel coloring so it won't look like gasoline. Another brand, which does look like gasoline, is genuine whisky, all less than one month old. It doesn't taste at all. It burns.

KILIAN RAPS PROSECUTOR OF CRUELTY TRIAL

Convicted for Brutal Acts, Colonel Calls Charges Malicious, Illegal.

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany—(AP)—Col. James A. Kilian signed courtmartial charges today against Capt. Earl J. Carroll, accusing the former prosecutor at the Lichfield cruelty cases of "maliciously" instigating the trial at which Kilian was convicted two days ago.

It was after the opening trial, in which Sgt. Judson Smith was convicted of guardhouse mistreatment, that charges were brought against Kilian. Since then eight other guards and three officers besides Kilian have been convicted in connection with the cruelties.

Kilian charged that in the Smith trial Carroll conducted the prosecution "with wrongful, unlawful and malicious intent to procure the prosecution and conviction" of Kilian.

He accused Carroll of "browbeating, intimidating and haranguing" witnesses, violating courtmartial rules of evidence, seeking improperly to influence the court, and making "unauthorized and untrue releases of information and statement" to the press.

"He conducted said trial as an illegal and unauthorized board of inquiries," Kilian alleged.

Kilian also accused Carroll of "unlawfully representing himself to be a defense witness" in Kilian's trial here "with the malicious intent to affect the testimony of defense witnesses and to influence the conduct and conclusion of said trial" and charged Carroll obtained special privilege for prisoners who were prosecution witnesses.

Kilian's attorney said he would file soon a brief attacking the legality of the courtmartial verdict finding Kilian guilty of "permitting" guardhouse cruelties although acquitting him of authorizing or even of knowing about them.

The verdict still is subject to military review.

Lumber Buyer Dies of Heart Attack Friday

NEWARK Albert R Wells, 54, R. D. 5, Mansfield, a lumber buyer who formerly lived here, died of a heart attack yesterday in a tourist camp on U. S. 40 near Hebron.

He was on his way to Indianapolis when the attack occurred. Born in Park county, Indiana, Mr. Wells lived here until 21 months ago when he moved to near Mansfield.

He is survived by his wife, Phoebe, one daughter, Ruby, of Indianapolis and two brothers, Alonzo and Judd, both of Fountainhead, Ind.

County 4-H Clubs Choose 6 Delegates To State Congress

Six 4-H delegates, two alternates, and two leaders were named last night to represent Richland county's 4-H organizations at the state 4-H congress to be held Sept 8 to 12 at Ohio State university.

The 10 were chosen by senior club advisers and other club representatives who met in the county agricultural extension office. Since the September congress will be the first one held in the past five years, the delegates were chosen on the basis of their activity over that period.

Girl delegates named were Norma Tingley, of the Future Homemakers club in Madison township; Mary Shreffler, of the Snappy Snippers club in Jackson township; Ruth Swisher, of the Handy Helpers club in Madison township, and Delores Weller, of the Honeycreek Lassies club of Jefferson township. Alternates named were Patsy Russell, of the Quick and Nimble club of Lucas, and Leola Maxwell, of the Mothers' Helpers club of Weller township.

Ted Barr, of the Pioneers club of Mt. Zion community in Monroe township, and William Wolford, of the Mifflin Livestock club, were the only representatives of boys' clubs selected by the group.

Mrs. Roscoe Hutchinson, who advised the Victory Farmers of Plymouth township, and Charles Clingan, adviser of the Future Farmers organization in Weller township, will represent the county's advisers.

Miss Mabel Spray, home demonstration agent, will serve as a member of the state program committee for the affair.

DELAY REQUEST FOR LAKE BIDS

City Officials Await OK of Plans for Project Before Asking for Offers.

Request for contractors' bids on the Clear Fork lake project, expected to be ready today, will be delayed for several days pending approval of plans for the project by army engineers at Huntington, W. Va., Service-Safety Director W. W. Enlow said today.

Enlow said C. C. Walker of the Jennings-Lawrence company, Columbus, Harry F. Smith, consulting engineer, and J. S. Gena, chief engineer of the Muskingum Conservancy district, met in Columbus yesterday to go over plans for the lake project, but the city had not been informed today of their decision.

Plans were forwarded to the Huntington engineers following the Columbus session.

City officials said they hoped to award the contract for construction of the dam this fall and get the work started before cold weather.

MODIFY PLAN

British Slowing Down Their Nationalization Program.

PARIS —(INS)— Highly authoritative peace conference circles predicted today that the British labor government may soon modify its nationalization program by dropping some of its most radical, socialist schemes.

Plans for drastic changes in the labor government's policy were said to be prompted primarily by deterioration of the international situation, particularly in relations between the east and west.

The same sources said the new British approach may involve important changes in the labor cabinet in the near future. As always in times of danger, the British are preparing to strengthen internal unity.

TAKE EWERS TO STATE HOSPITAL

Aged Sanitarium Inmate Committed to Lima for Observation.

Edward Ewers, 80-year-old invalid, charged with manslaughter in connection with the fatal beating June 7 of Franklyn Gatchel, 82, today was removed in an ambulance from the Lakeview Sanitarium, between Crestline and Mansfield, to the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

The aged man was ordered committed last week on the recommendation of Dr. J. F. Bateman, head of the Ohio State hospital at Columbus and a specialist in mental diseases. Dr. Bateman examined Ewers at the Lakeview sanitarium, where the alleged attack took place and where he has remained a bed patient.

Ohio law provides for commitment in such cases "until reason is restored," Prosecutor Theodore Lutz said.

Gatchel died June 8 of head injuries allegedly inflicted by Ewers on the previous day. The two men shared a room at the sanitarium.

Go To State Health Meet

Richland county health department officials and members of the county health board today were planning to attend the 27th annual conference of Health Commissioners of Ohio, to be held in Columbus, Sept. 5 and 6.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said he planned to attend the conference both days, while other members of the department will probably be there at least a day.

What promises to be an interesting talk on the Sanitation Foundation will be given by Walter Snyder, a brother of Mrs. Keith Farrell of Mansfield. Snyder, who formerly was with the Toledo department of public health, is now a member of the school of public health of the University of Michigan and is the founder of the Sanitation Foundation which is a research organization.

Confirm Release Of Spy Suspects

FRANKFURT, Germany — (INS) — American military officials confirmed today the release of 14 Germans arrested for serving an alleged Soviet-controlled spy ring but tossed responsibility for the arrests back and forth among themselves.

It was emphasized that Walter Kazmarek, leader of the alleged ring, is still in custody.

CONFESSES MURDER

ATHENS—(AP)—On the fifth day of his trial yesterday Willard Norris, 20, pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting last June 14 of Forest Maie, 30. Three witnesses had testified they saw Norris shoot Male with a rifle, but no motive was established.

UP AND DOWN the Street

HIS LUCK'S BAD—

Jay Herbert, one of the members of the Children's Theater, thinks the weatherman has some kind of a grudge against the play "Pierre Patelin." Jay has had the role of judge in the play twice, and both times the weather has been anything but agreeable. When the play was given several years ago, Jay had to portray the role in a downpour of rain. It was presented again Thursday, and this time the weather was so cold that audience and actors alike were shivering.

Truman's Holiday Will End Monday

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN IN THE ATLANTIC —(INS)— The presidential yacht Williamsburg was midway between Bermuda and the Virginia Capes early today, steaming northward through intermittent rain, squalls.

President Truman was in the last three days of his nearly three week vacation cruise which first took him into New England waters, thence to sunnier Bermuda for a week's stay. The president's vacation cruise will wind up Monday afternoon when the Williamsburg ties up at the Washington Gun factory at 5 p. m. EST.

Stores Penalized For OPA Violations

A Mansfield grocer today was listed among three northern Ohio merchants who were ordered by the OPA to suspend dealings in sugar for varying periods for overdrawing their sugar ration banking accounts.

The Mansfield firm is the Sternbaum grocery, 169 Vale avenue, suspended from dealing in sugar for one week, beginning Sunday. Firms involved in the cases will not be permitted to buy or sell sugar during their suspension periods.

NAZIS DENY GUILT IN WAR CRIMES TRIAL

International Court Ready to Study Verdict During 2-Week Recess.

BULLETIN

NUERNBERG, Germany — (AP)—The verdict in the nine-month-old Nuernberg war crimes trial will be given Sept. 23, the tribunal announced today.

NUERNBERG — (AP) — Adolf Hitler's top henchmen, led by hollow-eyed Hermann Goering, made their last pleas today before the international military tribunal which has heard almost incredible testimony of Nazi cruelty and terror for the past nine months.

While the 20 co-defendants sat in the prisoners' box, Goering opened the string of last minute speeches by shouting his innocence over and over again in an impassioned 10-minute plea.

Gaunt, white-faced Rudolf Hess followed Goering. Unleashing a storm of abuse, Hitler's one-time deputy attacked the entire procedure.

"I predicted that witnesses would appear who under oath would make untrue statements and the court would receive affidavits of untrue statements: that the defendants would hear astonishing facts," he shouted.

Recesses Tonight.

The court was expected to recess tonight to write its verdict, expected in about two weeks.

The once arrogant Goering kept his sharp, peering eyes averted from the four-power Allied court, as he read his last words of justification for his conduct.

In a high, strong voice the former reichsmarshal made an appeal "for the German people" regardless of what fate lay in store for himself.

He sought to ameliorate any guilt for himself, however, by declaring that the prosecution had failed to show by documentary proof where and how he could have known everything that happened under Hitler, even though he admittedly was the number two Nazi.

"I wish to state emphatically," said Goering, "never did I decree a murder of a single individual."

In a final outburst, Goering asserted he was nevertheless "standing back of everything I have done."

"The only motive which guided me was my ardent love for my people. I call on the Almighty and the German people as my witness."

The once mighty German leaders, for all of whom the death penalty has been demanded by the prosecution, first took their seats in the dock on Nov. 20, 1945.

EXPENSIVE HUG COSTS MAN $78

Mansfielder Sad, But Wiser, After Encounter With Playful Girls.

Hobert Ridenour of Lorain avenue was a wiser but sadder person today, to the tune of $78 cash.

The Lorain avenue man told police that he was walking south on Diamond street when two girls approached him in front of the Richland Printing company and one of the pair, apparently in an amorous mood, threw her arms around him.

It was when his walk reached the corner of Fourth and Main streets that he suddenly realized with a shock that his billfold and $78 were missing.

Bill Turner, 318 Harker street, received a cut on his head which required three stitches at General hospital after he was hit on the head shortly after he left the Pennsylvania railroad station last night.

Turner said that he was robbed of $5 but his assailant missed his billfold in a side pocket.

In what might have also been another attempt at robbery last night Fred Maced of Toledo phoned police and reported two men following him on North Mulberry street. Police failed to locate anyone answering the description given by the Toledo man upon their investigation.

Part of Bridge On West Sixth Open

Repair work on the West Sixth street bridge had advanced to a point where one side of the structure was to be opened to traffic at noon today, according to C. H. Hebel, city street superintendent.

Workmen still have about two days work next week on the bridge to finish repair work on the north side, Hebel said.

STORE HOURS CUT

PIQUA—(AP)—The majority of Piqua retail stores will inaugurate a 40-hour work week for their employes beginning next week, William M. Corry, managing director of the Chamber of Commerce, announced. The reduction in hours will not decrease "take home" pay, he said.
